DAUGHERTY IN LETTER SPURNS SENATE PROBE

Former Attorney General, Says He Will Not Appear as Voluntary Witness

ILLEGAL BODY, HE SAYS

Brookhart Replies to Statements, Defending Attack Made Upon Committee

Washington, June 4. (By the A. P.)—Former Attorney General Daugherty today notified the Senate committee which has had his official conduct under investigation for nearly four months that he would neither testify as a witness nor be represented further by counsel in its proceedings.

The committee had asked the former Attorney General to take the stand on Friday as the last witness before a preliminary report is submitted to the Senate. No formal subpoena had been issued by him, however, and committee members have indicated that they would take no step to compel his appearance.

Paul Howland, attorney for Mr. Daugherty, read the committee a statement by his client, declaring that "certain members of the committee" had made a desperate attempt to "blacken" his reputation and denying that he had "profited" in any illegal corrupt or unethical way from his tenure of office.

Mr. Daugherty's statement also declared the federal court in Ohio, in the litigation between the committee and Mr. Daugherty, had held the committee to be engaged in "an illegal proceeding." He therefore gave notice that his lawyers would withdraw.

Chairman Brookhart declared the statement was a "reflection" on the committee and said he intended to reply before letting matters go further.

The chairman added that under the circumstances he would ask the committee to proceed with its plans of making a partial report, and to adjourn "for some time." It is a portion of the plan to resume sessions, however, late in the summer.

"We have proved the existence of a criminal conspiracy in Mr. Daugherty's household," said Sen. Brookhart. "We have proved that the tax returns of Mr. Daugherty when he took office showed that he had no money but that before he left office he had $75,000 on deposit in his brother's bank." Sen. Brookhart also referred to the indictment of Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor, as a "frame up" and said Mr. Daugherty had sought to attack others instead of defending himself.

Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, said he wanted to examine "some dissent from the chairman" and Mr. Howland with George E. Chamberlain, his associate, then left the committee room.

WHEELER'S COMMENT
St. Louis, June 4.—Former Attorney General Daugherty "did not care to lay himself open to the rigorous examination that would have awaited him" U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler today, asserted in commenting on Daugherty's refusal to appear before the Senate committee investigating him.

URGES TRIBUTE ON FLAG DAY

Governor Nestos Issues Statement Asking Celebrations

Observance of Flag Day was urged upon all citizens of the state today by Governor R. A. Nestos, in a statement as follows:

"June fourteenth has been designated Flag Day. The day may become of great value if our people catch the spirit of the occasion. They should realize what the flag means in terms of national growth; remember thru what labors, trials and tribulations it saw its birth; and remember what splendid contributions noble men have made to our national strength and greatness under its protecting folds. The emblem should be displayed on Flag Day upon all public buildings and, wherever possible, upon the homes and business places of our people. In all the various meetings and exercises of that day, a portion of it ought to be given to a consideration of the ideals and principles for which the flag stands. At all events our people should display their flags on Flag Day and thus remind all of the high regard in which we hold our national emblem."

MARKET DAYS PLAN ADOPTED BY CITY CLUB

Advertising Club Launches Broad Get-Together Farm and City Program

PLAN BAND CONCERTS

The Market Day Committee of the Advertising Club, at a meeting held last evening, decided upon a general program for its work this summer. It is planned to have a series of six Market Days to be called Baby's Day, Girl's Day, Boy's Day, Mother's Day and Family Day. The first one, Baby's Day, will be held Saturday, June 21. There will be band concerts, free shows at both the movie theaters, baby tests for all farm babies under one year old and suitable prizes in cash and merchandise given to the best babies. Several other entertainment features are planned for the first day and for each of the succeeding days during the season. Special invitations will be sent to every farmer within a radius of 25 or 30 miles of Bismarck to visit the city on these days and have a good time on us. The committee is very enthusiastic over the program.

The Advertising Club has a number of other propositions under advisement by which the city and surrounding country can be brought into closer touch and harmony, which, as soon as they are in more concrete form, will be put before the entire membership of the Club for suggestions and chances.

The first work of the Club was the sending of several of the Juvenile Band to Linton last week, to the celebration there, under the care of Secretary Bradley and Mr. Sorlien, the arrangements having been made by Fred Cady and all reports are that the boys made a big hit and the Lintons did not want them to come home at all. It is planned to have another group sent to the doings at New Salem week after next on the dairy circuit trip.

The Club also plans a series of meetings and picnics during the summer at various points throughout the county so that business men and merchants can meet the farmers of the community and really get acquainted with them in a social way instead of on a strictly business footing.

SHOWERS FALL IN NO. DAKOTA

Precipitation Reported From Several Points

Showers fell in several sections of the state in the 24-hour weather bureau day ending at 7 o'clock this morning, according to reports to the local bureau.

Precipitation is recorded as follows: Bismarck .02; Devils Lake .02; Dickinson .03; Dunn Center .03; Grand Forks .24; Jamestown .18; Napoleon .37; Williston .20.

The North Dakota corn and wheat region summary of the bureau for the week is as follows:

While temperature conditions were more favorable than during preceding weeks, there was much cloudiness and a decided deficiency in precipitation. Farm work made excellent progress, consisting mostly in corn planting and seeding of flax. Spring wheat is coming nicely but rain is needed in many sections. Early planted corn is up, though many reports of cut worms have been received. Pastures and ranges are excellent.

The statute knot, usually considered as a standard, is 5082.66 feet.

REQUISITIONS ARE HONORED

Governor Nestos has honored a requisition for the return to Daugherty county, Minnesota, of J. B. Briggs and James C. Brown, under arrest at Minot, on charges of stealing an automobile.

MUCH SUMMER FALLOW HELD LIKELY IN N. D.

May Precipitation Somewhat Light in Western Half of State, Says Diamond

WINTER RYE STAND GOOD

"May precipitation over the eastern half of the state was generally ample for crop needs, but in the western half amounts were somewhat light and need of further moisture was reported in many localities when the month closed," says the crop summary of J. G. Diamond, agricultural credit statistician, Grand Forks, in his summary for the last half of May. "Temperatures during May averaged unusually low with frequent killing frosts in all sections of the state throughout the month. This weather retarded all vegetative growth and was especially unfavorable for corn. Much of the early planted corn either failed to germinate or was killed off by frosts as soon as it appeared above ground and a large percentage will need to be reseeded. A large amount of planting for this reason has been delayed beyond the usual planting date. Seeding of flax has also been held up for more favorable weather, while frost damage to early sown flax appears from reports to have been fairly general. As a result of the delay in seeding and planting of the late crops and the large amount of spring plowing that has been accomplished, there will probably be a large acreage summer-fallowed this season.

"Winter rye for most part is showing good stands and color. The crop is nearing the steely stage. Spring wheat, oats and barley still show a very promising condition and are well rooted and unusually free from weed growth, which is generally believed to have more than offset the lack of top-growth. Seeding was generally completed by the second week in May, although some late barley seeding was in progress in the northern districts when the month closed.

"Pasture growth has been slow, but appears to have been generally sufficient for needs of stock, except principally in some central and southern sections where feed supplies have been running low and condition of livestock is reported somewhat poor. Elsewhere livestock conditions in fairly good condition.

"Farm labor needs are smaller with the spring rush of field work over and supplies appear to be sufficient for present needs."

VERDICT GIVEN DAKOTA MAN

Moorhead, Minn., June 4.—John P. Wagner of Grandin, N. D., was awarded a verdict of $941.36 by a jury in Clay county district court today in his suit against the Great Northern Railway for $25,000 damages which resulted when he was injured in the shoulder and suffered alleged nervous trouble while operating a train at Grandin in January, 1923.

ST. JOSEPH'S CONSECRATED IN MANDAN TODAY

More Than 1,500 People Attend Elaborate Religious Services

BISHOP WEHRLEPRESENT

Consecration Means Freedom From Debt of Church After 20 Years

Visiting priests, parishoners and hundreds of others gathered in Mandan today to attend the services in the connection with the consecration of St. Joseph's church, of which Father Clement Dimpfl, O. S. B., is pastor.

The consecration ceremony was conducted by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Vincent Wehrle of Bismarck, with many assisting him, including Abbot Aleuin, president of St. John's university, Collegeville, Minnesota; Rev. E. Collins, predecessor to Father Clement, also was present. The Mandan church, which was dedicated December 8, 1904, is now free from debt.

The program of consecration began this morning, and was the culmination of mission services held for two days, by Rev. Fr. Joseph C. Meyer and Rev. Fr. John Joseph Brogger.

Dinner was served at noon. At 3 o'clock there was an open air concert by the St. Mary's band of Bismarck. Outdoor sermons were preached.

Many Present
More than 1,500 people were at the church today at the consecration, and the attendant pontifical high mass. The services marked the clearing off of the last cent of debt of the church, which cost $45,000 in 1901. It was the most elaborate religious ceremony in the history of Catholicism in western North Dakota. Thirty-two priests were in attendance.

Governor Nestos in an address during the morning expressed his appreciation of the efforts of the congregation to establish Christianity and maintain it, and asserted that the Christian religion, regardless of sects, was the foundation of the nation.

At one time during the services three priests were speaking to congregations at various places, in English, in German and in Bohemian.

ILL LUCK HITS FLAG PLANE OF WORLD FLIERS

Is Unable to Rise From Japanese Bay to Continue Flight Around World

Shanghai, China, June 4.—(By the A. P.)—The American round the world expedition, pursued by the ill luck which robbed it of its flag plane, the Seattle, together with the commander and his mechanic, Major Frederick Martin and Sergeant Alva Harvey, again was divided today and once again it was the flag plane that was the fiasco.

Major Martin experienced much difficulty at several places on the trip north from California, being forced down on the first day's flight and suffering mishaps which first delayed him far behind the other fliers and then culminated in the wreck of his plane against a mountain in Alaska.

Last Monday, the plane Chicago, succeeded the Seattle in flag honors, experienced engine trouble on the flight from Sacramento south to Kagoshima, Japan, which resulted in a forced landing. Today the same refractory engine was unable to raise the machine from the waters of Kagoshima harbor.

The other two planes went on without the leader. The expectation here is that the Chicago, with Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, now commander of the flight and his mechanic will make the 500-mile jump across the China sea to this port tomorrow if the weather permits and the engine can be reduced to a more practicable condition by that time.

PEGGY JOYCE MARRIED AGAIN

New York, June 4.—"Peggy" Hopkins Joyce is married again. This announcement was made by friends who said they had learned that Miss Joyce was secretly married in Atlantic City yesterday to Count Gustav Morner, a Swedish nobleman.

The bride's fourth and latest husband is at present a resident of Highland Park, a suburb of Chicago. Friends of the couple said the count persuaded Miss Joyce on Sunday to change her decision never to marry again, which she made after her divorce from Stanley Joyce, Chicago millionaire.

The height of type is measured by "points," a point being approximately one seventy-second of an inch.

CONFESSIONS NOT SIGNED BY LEOPOLD, LOEB

States Authorities Must Rely on Witnesses to Their Verbal Statements

CELLS ARE GUARDED

Authorities Fear Youths May Endeavor to Carry Out Suicide Threats

Chicago, June 4. (By the A. P.)—Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, millionaire's sons, admitted kidnappers and slayers of Robert Frank's school boy, son of wealthy Jacob Frank, have signed no confessions of guilt, it became known today, and the state, which has asked the grand jury for murder indictments, must rely on testimony of witnesses who heard their statements.

Double guards have been placed in the county jail to watch the cells of the pair day and night until a verdict is returned in their case. Fearful that either may attempt to carry out previously expressed suicide plans, all food brought to them is rigidly inspected and jail employees have been cautioned to prevent smuggling to them of any chance for self destruction.

Not Hurrying Case
States Attorney Robert E. Crowe said he would not hurry the indictment against Loeb and Leopold and that every available witness would be called to testify before the grand jury. Eleven witnesses went before the jury yesterday and more than a score yet remained to be heard. That the defense will be made by the most brilliant attorneys in the country is considered by prosecutors, because of the $15,000,000 represented by the parents of the youths.

"All the money in the world won't save these boys," declared Michael Hughes, chief of detectives, who is the most complete case ever gotten together. "Solely on the evidence given by Leopold and Loeb we have not too much corroborative evidence to permit them to escape. I am certain they will receive the death penalty."

Other Probes
Investigation of possible connection of Leopold and Loeb into the shooting last fall of Freeman Louis Tracy, university student, whose body with a bullet through the head, was found near Lake Michigan, has developed that the bullet with which he was killed fits Leopold's pistol.

Although Charles Ream, taxi driver, victim last fall of a mutilation attack, has identified Leopold and Loeb as his assailants, authorities are skeptical until an investigation, under way, has been completed. Unofficial inquiry is also being made into the death of Melvin Wolf several months ago, pronounced a suicide by the police after his nude body was found in Lake Michigan. Wolf lived in the same neighborhood as Franks, Leopold and Loeb.

The slain boy's father was the first witness to appear before the grand jury. After his testimony he expressed sorrow for the parents of the two youths and felt no hatred for them but he said he would be willing to spring the trap if they were sentenced to be executed.

MRS. ANNA LUND DIES IN CITY

Body Taken to Steele For Burial There

Mrs. Anna Lund, who would have been 69 years old today, died in a local hospital at 10:30 o'clock from complications incident to old age. Mrs. Lund had lived in Kidder and Burleigh counties for 20 years, with her sons.

Born in Norway, Mrs. Lund came to this country 40 years ago. Her husband died some years later. She had lived much of the time at Steele.

Funeral services will be held in the Lutheran church at Steele Friday afternoon at 2 p. m. Mrs. Lund having been a member of that church. Surviving are four sons, William and Oliver of Steele; Bernard of Manchester, N. H.; and O. B. Lund, 723 Ninth street, Bismarck, and one brother, Iver, at Everett, Washington.

ST. PAUL ROTARIANS TO PROVIDE CORK LEG FOR LITTLE BISMARCK NEWSBOY

Members, Struck By His Sunny Disposition at Time of Rotary Conference Here, Take Steps to Make Life More Pleasant for Edward Singbell

Edward Singbell is but 11 years old, but he has found out that the world contains many great hearts, and that there always is sunshine peeping around the corner to drive away tragedy.

Edward also has found out that a sunny disposition is an asset and that the Rotary club's slogan of "Service means something." For as a result of his own bright manners and the big heartedness of the St. Paul Rotary club, Edward is going to have a new cork leg, and he is also going to have the friendly interest and help of the Bismarck Rotary club in facing life's battles.

Life looked rather dreary to Edward a few years ago. His mother died about four years ago. It was after the "flu" epidemic, his family was large and for other reasons it was decided that he would not live with his father down around Burnstad.

He had suffered a grievous accident. While riding on a buggy with some boys one of them gave him a push and his leg caught in a wheel. It was horribly wrenched and it was necessary to amputate the lower part.

PARDON BOARD DEFERS ACTION IN McCRILL CASE
The board of pardons, which concluded its June session here today, deferred action on the petition for clemency for Tommy McCrill, youthful Minot resident, serving a life term for murder committed by his brother with a revolver he handed the brother. It may be taken up in July.

No pardons were granted by the board, but several commutations and paroles were approved.

VALLEY CITY MAN VICTIM IN TRAIN CRASH

Delivery Truck Struck By Northern Pacific Train No. 2 at Crossing

Valley City, N. D., June 4.—Matthew Kelly, 62, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when the Ford delivery truck which he was driving south on Ninth avenue was struck by the crack Northern Pacific coast train No. 2 at the railroad crossing on Ninth avenue and Front street. Rushed to the city clinic where three doctors worked with hope against hope to save the man's life, the injured driver passed away an hour later without regaining consciousness while members of the family, his wife and three daughters and only son, stood close to the bedside.

According to eye witnesses to the fatal wreck, which occurred at the same place Lynn C. Cowell came near losing his life four years ago, Mr. Kelly was driving south on the avenue and apparently did not notice the approaching express. Probably looking back in his truck at the names on some of the orders and planning his deliveries, the unfortunate man was unaware of the oncoming train and failed to hear it. A number of buildings on the right hand side of the road going south, and on the north side of the track, may have obstructed his view but it is the general belief that he was altogether unaware of his approaching fate as eye witnesses stated he was traveling at a slow rate of speed.

The widowed mother and her three daughters together with her three sons, came to the clinic shortly after the accident and stood near the bed as the father and husband breathed his last.

SHIPMENTS OF STOCK JUMP

Livestock Shipments on N. P. Increase

A thirty-five percent increase in livestock shipments on the Northern Pacific lines in North Dakota recently is reported by E. E. Ellsworth, traveling freight agent.

There has been particularly an increase in hog shipments, he reported. One point, in asking for 32 cars, specified that 31 were for hogs and one for cattle. A few years ago this point, west of the Missouri, shipped mostly cattle, Mr. Ellsworth said.

There also has been an increase in shipments of sheep, particularly from western North Dakota. The spring wool clip, which starts about June 15, will be much larger than usual, according to his reports.

The exceptionally good winter for livestock, more corn and better feeding conditions are among the reasons given by Mr. Ellsworth for the increased shipments.

Yesterday reports of increased shipments of livestock on the Missouri River division of the Soo line were carried in a Tribune story.

FORCES FIGHT FOR PRIORITY IN NEW BILLS

Muscle Shoals Adherents Clash With Those Favoring Farm Relief Action

SENATE AT STANDSTILL

Irrigation Relief Measure Also Rises to be Cleared Before Adjournment

SCHOOLS BILL SHELVED
Washington, June 4.—Agreement was reached today by Senators interested in the Muscle Shoals fight to postpone consideration of the question until the next session of Congress.

Rush New Bill
Washington, June 4. (By the A. P.)—Farm bloc members of the Senate and House drove forward today with plans to action before adjournment Saturday on a new relief measure embodying principles of the defeated McNary-Haugen bill.

With the support of Republican leaders in the House and bill, which was agreed upon in tentative form late yesterday shortly after the McNary-Haugen measure had been voted down, hoped to get some expression from President Coolidge that would facilitate its passage.

The proposal would empower the War Finance Corporation until July 1, 1925, to purchase wheat, flour, livestock and meat products at prices higher than market quotations and sell them abroad, charging off losses, if any, against its $161,000,000 surplus. The "ratio price" provision of the McNary-Haugen bill is carried in the new measure, as the basis for determining when the corporation should enter the market.

An outline of the new relief bill was laid before President Coolidge today by Rep. Longworth, the Republican House leader. Rep. Tinker, Republican, Kansas, a leader of the farm bloc, and Rep. Sanders, Republican, Indiana. They spent an hour with the chief executive and when they left the White House they appeared confident the measure would be acceptable to him.

President Coolidge is said to have told the three representatives he probably would let them know later in the day his opinion of the new relief plan. In case he gives approval, a bill will be introduced, which a fort made to rush it through Congress.

Washington, June 4. (By the A. P.)—Congress, with adjournment set for 7 p. m. Saturday, suffered today from acute legislative congestion.

The Senate side was the more affected of the two, one group headed by Senator Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, being determined to get a vote on the Muscle Shoals question and another, led by Senator La Follette, Republican, insurgent, Wisconsin, being on record as opposing any action not designed for the relief of agriculture.

The House was not without its troubles, it appeared to be in a much easier situation than the Senate. Its chief task centered about farm relief and the reclamation bill reported yesterday by the irrigation committee and embodying recommendations made by the Interior Department fact finding commission.

While farm bloc members speeded up preparation of a compromise measure to take the place of the McNary-Haugen bill, which was eliminated yesterday, supporters of the reclamation plan, moved for its quick disposal through suspension of rules in both chambers to permit action on it as an amendment of the pending deficiency bill providing funds for operation of the bonus land bill. This program, which would bar amendments, limits debate to 40 minutes and requires two-thirds majority, was said to have the approval of the leaders of both parties.

Is Unable to Rise From Japanese Bay to Continue Flight Around World

Shanghai, China, June 4.—(By the A. P.)—The American round the world expedition, pursued by the ill luck which robbed it of its flag plane, the Seattle, together with the commander and his mechanic, Major Frederick Martin and Sergeant Alva Harvey, again was divided today and once again the flag plane that was the flag of the expedition.

Major Martin experienced much difficulty at several places on the trip north from California, being forced down on the first day's flight and suffering mishaps which first delayed him far behind the other fliers and then culminated in the wreck of his plane against a mountain in Alaska.

Last Monday, the plane Chicago, succeeded the Seattle in flag honors, experienced engine trouble on the flight from Kusimot, south of Kagoshima, Japan, which resulted in a forced landing. Today the same refractory engine was unable to raise the machine from the waters of Kagoshima harbor.

The other two planes went on without the leader. The expectation here is that the Chicago, with Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, now commander of the flight and his mechanic will make the 500-mile jump across the Chin sea to this port tomorrow if the weather permits and the engine can be reduced to a more practicable condition by that time.

PEGGY JOYCE MARRIED AGAIN

New York, June 4.—"Peggy Hopkins Joyce is married again."

This announcement was made by friends who said they had learned that Miss Joyce was secretly married in Atlantic City yesterday to Count Costa Morner, a Swedish nobleman.

The bride's fourth and latest husband is at present resident of Highland Park, a suburb of Chicago. Friends of the couple said the count persuaded Miss Joyce on Sunday to change her decision never to marry again, which she made after her divorce from Stanley Joyce, Chicago millionaire.

CONFESSIONS NOT SIGNED BY LEOPOLD, LOEB

States Authorities Must Rely on Witnesses to Their Verbal Statements

CELLS ARE GUARDED

Authorities Fear Youths May Endeavor to Carry Out Suicide Threats

Chicago, June 4. (By the A. P.)—Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, millionaire's sons, admitted kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, school boy, son of wealthy Jacob Franks, have signed no confessions of guilt, it became known today, and the state, which has asked the grand jury for murder indictments, must rely on testimony of witnesses who heard their statements.

Double guards have been placed in the county jail to watch the cells of the pair day and night until a verdict is returned in their case. Fearful that either may attempt to carry out previously expressed suicide plans, all food brought to them is rigidly inspected and jail employees have been cautioned to prevent smuggling to them of any chance for self destruction.

Not Hurrying Case
States Attorney Robert E. Crowe said he would not hurry the indictment against Leopold and Loeb and that every available witness would be called to testify before the grand jury. Eleven witnesses went before the jury yesterday and more than a score yet remained to be heard.

That the defense will be made by the most brilliant attorneys in the country is considered by prosecutors, because of the $15,000,000 represented by the parents of the youths.

"All the money in the world won't save these boys," declared Michael Hughes, chief of detectives. "It is the most complete case ever gotten together. Solely on the evidence given by Leopold and Loeb we have conviction at various places, in English, in German and in Bohemian."

Investigation of possible connection of Leopold and Loeb into the shooting last fall of Freeman Louis Truett, university student, whose body with a bullet through the head, was found near the university campus, has developed that the bullet with which he was killed fits Leopold's pistol.

Although Charles Roam, taxi driver, victim last fall of a machine gun attack, has identified Leopold and Loeb as his assailants, authorities are skeptical until an investigation, under way, has been completed. Unofficial inquiry is also being made into the death of Melvin Wolf several months ago, pronounced a suicide by the police after his nude body was found in Lake Michigan.

Wolf lived in the same neighborhood as Franks, Leopold and Loeb. The slain boy's father was the first witness to appear before the grand jury. After his testimony he expressed his belief that the boys were youths and felt no hatred for them but he said he would be willing to spring the trap if they were sentenced to be executed.

MRS. ANNA LUND DIES IN CITY

Body Taken to Steele For Burial There

Mrs. Anna Lund, who would have been 69 years old today, died in a local hospital at 10:30 o'clock from complications incident to old age.

Mrs. Lund had lived in Kidder and Burleigh counties for 20 years, with her sons.

Born in Norway, Mrs. Lund came to this country 40 years ago. Her husband died some years later. She had lived much of the time at Steele.

Funeral services will be held in the Lutheran church at Steele Friday afternoon at 2 p. m. Mrs. Lund having been a member of the church. Surviving are four sons, William and Oliver of Steele; Bernard of Manchester, N. H.; and O. B. Lund, 723 Ninth street, Bismarck, and one brother, Iver, at Everett, Washington.

ST. PAUL ROTARIANS TO PROVIDE CORK LEG FOR LITTLE BISMARCK NEWSBOY

Members, Struck By His Sunny Disposition at Time of Rotary Conference Here, Take Steps to Make Life More Pleasant for Edward Singbeil

Edward Singbeil is but 11 years old, but he has found out that the world contains many great truths, and that there always is sunshine peeping around the corner to drive away tragedy.

Edward also has found out that a sunny disposition is an asset and that the Rotary club's slogan of "Service" means something. For as a result of his own bright manners and the big heartedness of the St. Paul Rotary club, Edward is going to have a new cork leg, and he is also going to have the friendly interest and help of the Bismarck Rotary club in facing life's battles.

Life looked rather dreary to Edward a few years ago. His mother died about four years ago. It was after the "flu" epidemic, his family was large and for other reasons it was feared that he would not live with his father down around Burnstad.

He had suffered a grievous accident. While riding on a buggy with some boys one of them gave him a push and his leg caught in a wheel. It was horribly wrenched and it was necessary to amputate the lower part.

PARDON BOARD DEFERS ACTION IN McCRILL CASE

The board of pardons, which concluded its June session here today, deferred action on the petition for clemency for Tommy McCrill, youthful Minot resident, serving a life term for murder committed by his brother with a revolver he handed the brother. It may be taken up in July.

No pardons were granted by the board, but several commutations and paroles were approved.

VALLEY CITY MAN VICTIM IN TRAIN CRASH

Delivery Truck Struck By Northern Pacific Train No. 2 at Crossing

Valley City, N. D., June 4.—Matthew Kelly, 52, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when the Ford delivery truck which he was driving south on Ninth avenue was struck by the crack Northern Pacific coast train No. 2 at the railroad crossing on Ninth avenue and Front street.

Rushed to the clinic where three doctors worked with him against hope to save the man's life, the injured driver passed away an hour later without regaining consciousness while members of the family, his wife and three daughters and only son, stood close to the bedside.

According to the clinic where the fatal wreck, which occurred at the same place Lynn Cowell came near losing his life four years ago, Mr. Kelly was driving south on the avenue and apparently did not notice the approaching express. Probably looking back on the truck at the time some of his order and planning his deliveries, the unfortunate man was unaware of the oncoming train and failed to hear it.

A number of buildings on the right hand side of the road going south, and on the north side of the track, were struck by the train. The wreckage of the truck was found in the general belief that he was altogether unaware of his approaching fate as eye witnesses stated he was traveling at a slow rate of speed.

The widowed mother and her three daughters, together with the only son, came to the clinic shortly after the accident and stood near the bed as the father and husband breathed his last.

FORCES FIGHT FOR PRIORITY IN NEW BILLS

Muscle Shoals Adherents Clash with Those Favoring Farm Relief Action

SENATE AT STANDSTILL

Irrigation Relief Measure Also Rises to be Cleared Before Adjournment

SCHOOLS BILL SHELVED
Washington, June 4.—Agreement was reached today by Senators interested in the Muscle Shoals fight to postpone consideration of the question until the next session of Congress.

Rush New Bill
Washington, June 4. (By the A. P.)—Farm bloc members of the Senate and House drove forward today with plans to get action before adjournment Saturday on a new relief measure embodying principles of the defeated McNary-Haugen bill.

With the support of Republican leaders in the House indicated, sponsors of the new bill, which was agreed upon in tentative form late yesterday, shortly after the McNary-Haugen measure had been voted down, hoped to get some expression from President Coolidge that would facilitate its passage.

The proposal would empower the War Finance Corporation until July 1, 1925, to purchase wheat, flour, livestock and meat products at prices higher than market quotations and sell them abroad, charging off losses, if any, against its $161,000,000 surplus. The "ratio price" provision of the McNary-Haugen bill is carried in the new measure, as the basis for determining when the corporation should enter the market.

An outline of the new relief bill was laid before President Coolidge today by Rep. Longworth, the Republican House leader. Rep. Tinner, Republican, Kansas, a leader of the farm bloc, and Rep. Sanders, Republican, Indiana. They spent an hour with the chief executive and when they left the White House they appeared confident the measure would be acceptable to him.

President Coolidge is said to have told the three representatives he probably would let them know later in the day his opinion of the new relief plan. In case he gives approval, a bill will be introduced and effort made to rush it through Congress.

Washington, June 4. (By the A. P.)—Congress, with adjournment set for 7 p. m. Saturday, suffered today from acute legislative congestion.

The Senate side was the more affected of the two, one group headed by Senator Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, being determined to get a vote on the Muscle Shoals question and another, led by Senator LaFollette, Republican, insurgent, Wisconsin, being on record as opposing any action not designed for the relief of agriculture.

The House was not without its troubles, it appeared to be in a much easier situation than the Senate. Its chief task centered about farm relief and the reclamation bill reported yesterday by the irrigation committee and embodying recommendations made by the Interior Department fact finding commission.

While farm bloc members speeded up preparation of a compromise measure to take the place of the McNary-Haugen bill, which was eliminated yesterday, supporters of the reclamation plan, moved for its quick disposal through suspension of rules in both chambers to permit action on it as an amendment of the pending deficiency bill providing funds for operation of the bonanza law. This program, which would bar amendments, limits debate to 40 minutes and requires two-thirds majority, was said to have the approval of the leaders of both parties.

Gold in Mission Altar Proves Mines Existed

Perhaps the most concrete evidence today, pointing to the reality of the legends of early civilization in the Southwest is the altar of San Xavier mission, conducted at the present time by Catholic sisters for the relief of the sick and needy among the Indians. For several hundred years the mission was a cathedral and it is situated a few miles outside of the city of Tucson, Ariz. The altar is inlaid with virgin gold, and pure gold was beaten into the masonry and decorations of the chancel when it was constructed early in the seventeenth century.

The records of the mission, which have been carefully kept for generations, show that the gold was brought by Indians from the Cana del Oro, where they had mined under the direction of Spanish priests. In fact, the old trail by which the precious metal was transported on mules' backs still exists and leads directly from the cathedral into Cana del Oro and then loses itself in desert wastes.

The Apaches attacked the mission about one hundred years ago and drove away the priests. For several years the Indian tribes used the building as a stable, but they did not touch the altar of gold. It is believed that they had no interest in gold intrinsically, for their medicine men are thought to have had, even at that late date, complete information about rich deposits of desert gold.—New York Tribune.

Sneeze Greeted in Many Ways in Various Places

"A vos souhaits!" (God bless you!)

Now is the season when you hear the expression very frequently. With those words we apostrophize one who sneezes.

Among the Indian tribes of North America, we understand, a polite question is elicited by the sneeze of one's companion: "Who calls me?" When an Eskimo sneezes he says to himself: "Come back to me!" for popular belief has it that the sneeze indicates an escape or flight of the soul.

In the British East Indies it is also believed that part of the soul flies forth at each sneeze; and when the natives hear a friend sneeze, they say: "God protect you!" to which the sneezer's response should be: "And you like wise!" The Siamese believe that a person sneezes because God, turning the pages of the Doomsday Book, has paused at his name.

In Portugal, when anyone sneezes, you raise your hat. The Irish and the Russians, like the Hindus, exclaim: "God protect you!" The Italians say: "Felicita!"

As for the English, they don't say anything at all, but they immediately take precautions against a cold in the head, of which the sneeze is supposed to be a warning.—Le Petit Parisien.

He'd Done It Before

"Now dear," remarked Mrs. Subbuh to her husband, as he was getting ready to go to the city, "I want you to do a little job for me while you are in town today. Will you go to Goose's and get me a house robe?"

"Very well, dear," he replied, and went on his way.

Entering the store some time later, Mr. Subbuh gave his order.

"Here are some very pretty ones," said the salesgirl. "What color do you prefer?"

"Doesn't make any difference?" was the answer.

"Doesn't make any difference?" echoed the girl. "But don't you think your wife would like a certain color?"

"No, it doesn't make any difference. What color or size I get," said Mr. Subbuh, sadly. "I shall have to come back tomorrow and have it changed."

Hunting Cheeta

For short distances the cheeta is supposed to be the swiftest quadruped. However, it is not possible to ascribe the honor definitely to any particular animal. The cheeta, which is found in Asia and Africa, is a large tropical cat, slender of body and limb. It is from three to four feet long and of a pale, tawny color, marked with numerous dark spots on its sides and back and almost white beneath. It resembles the leopard, and is often called the hunting leopard. The animal resembles the dog in docility. Its fur is not sleek like that of typical cats. It has a long tail, which is somewhat bushy at the end.

ASKS FOREIGN TRADE STUDY BY COLLEGES

Proposes New Manner to Bring Forces Together in Study of Problems

ENTHUSIASM IS NEEDED

Boston, June 4.—The creation of a foreign trade students exchange was the proposal today of Henry Howard, of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, before the National Trade Convention as the most practical manner of bringing the university foreign trade student and the business man of the United States together in solving the problem of how to stabilize the foreign trade career for young Americans.

Mr. Howard said that it seemed to him that if such a students exchange were established by the Educational Committee of the National Foreign Trade Council, in New York, this would solve in some measure present difficulties.

Mr. Howard's proposal came at the end of the session which was presided over by Dean W. R. Gray, of the Ames Tuck School of Administration and Finance, Dartmouth College.

Mr. Howard's subject was: "What Business Men Think About the Foreign Trade Career," and his proposal was the conclusion of a lengthy address in which he submitted the opinions of a wide range of business men. He said that many business men had taken a rather patronizing point of view toward the foreign trade student, whereas many distinct advantages could be derived from the use of such men in American foreign trade.

He said, for one thing, that the enthusiasm of youth was needed to prevent hardening of the arteries in certain offices. He said that corporations and firms should look on such men in the same light that they have come to look on engineering men and other technical students whom they take after graduation.

Mr. Howard continued: "It seems to me that in general the proper training for the manufacturer to give to a student graduate from a foreign trade course is, first, to put him into the works in order to give him a practical knowledge of the

6 BOTTLES OF TANLAC MATCH FOR TROUBLES

Popular Conductor Says It Ended Ten Years Suffering.

"Six bottles of Tanlac ended my ten years of indigestion and left me feeling like a man made over," recently declared C. H. Harbert, 333 Franklin Ave., Sioux Falls, S. D., popular freight conductor on the C. St. P. & M. O. Railroad.

"My stomach troubled me continually and got so bad I came near giving up. Practically everything I ate—which was little enough—just added that much more to the gassy bloated condition my stomach was always in, and to keep railroading with that constant pain and feeling as run-down and miserable as I felt was no easy task.

"But since taking Tanlac, I eat everything, my stomach is sound, healthy and normal my food digests 100 per cent and I feel fine and fit. There's no two ways about it, Tanlac is certainly the right treatment for stomach troubles."

articles which are manufactured and which he will have to sell. Second, put him into the domestic sales department to give him training in salesmanship. Third, transfer him into the foreign trade department and let him go as far as he can."

Must Train Men
Mr. Howard said, however, that the colleges must train the men. "I do not believe graduates can be used to any advantage by many of our salesmen."

Mr. Howard expressed the opinion that it might take several generations before American youth came to give the same serious consideration to such careers as British youth, but that since the year 1914 there had been astonishing progress in the United States in thinking along international lines.

REFUSES TO BE MILLIONAIRE

Divides Dividend With Employees to Escape Being a Millionaire

By NEA Service.
Cincinnati, June 4—"Golden Rule" Nash is happy.

He has escaped becoming a millionaire.

"$600,000 stock dividend which would have made him one has not passed through his hands."

He has divided it among the 4000 employees in his garment factory here. So Arthur Nash—that is the way "Golden Rule" signs his checks—is not the only one in the plant who is going around with a broad smile these days.

"You have made this money for me," he told his employees, "So it is yours."

"I would be a robber—aye, a traitor or worse than Judas Iscariot were I to accept a penny of it."

Nash's conscience had been troubled for weeks. The "golden rule" he had been following in his business was making him rich.

He had started out in a small way. Now, after a few years, it was necessary for him to seek larger quarters. His business already had outgrown two factory buildings.

"Golden Rule" was worried. At the rate the money was coming in, he soon would be a millionaire. And a million dollars, he argued, was too much for any man to have.

The owner of the million, he reasoned, had not created it all himself. Therefore it morally did not belong to him.

35-Hour Week
But what was he going to do with it? To whom would he give it?

He inaugurated a 35-hour week in his plant—five days of seven hours each. That gave his employees—many of them widows—a chance to be with their children on Saturdays. He readjusted wages, so there would be no loss by reason of the shorter week.

But still the money came in. The folks in the plant worked better than ever.

Nash, in desperation of how to escape this great wealth, finally wrote an open letter to the Christian people of America. He had it printed in 30 religious publications.

Answers began rolling in at the rate of 100 a day. Most writers, wanted something for themselves, or for financing pet hobbies.

"They wanted me to steal this money from those to whom it belonged and give it to them," says Nash.

Then he hit upon the answer himself.

He called his employees together, addressing them as "Friends and Fellow Workers."

100 Per Cent Dividend
He announced the 100 per cent dividend. All the employees own stock in the company. Each would share in the dividend. But what of his own share?

"If I personally appropriate the part of our joint production that accumulated in profits," he told them, "I am stealing from you. As far as the law is concerned, of course, I am doing it legitimately."

"But if I must be a thief, I prefer to be one of the gunman type. I shall not even consider taking this dividend."

"I have taken in the past only what was apportioned to me because those in whom I had great faith advised me it seemed to be the only logical working out of the problem."

"This time, however, I am not going to accept a cent of it. It is yours."

"And I hope that within a year or two you will own the business jointly with me."

"Why," Linda explained earnestly, "Ah done got married yesterday an' changed mah name."—Dry Goods Economist.

WHAT NEW TAX BILL MEANS TO U.S. TAXPAYERS

Gunder Olson, Collector. Receives Telegram From Bureau on the Subject

Gunder Olson, Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of North Dakota, has received a telegram from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., which prescribes how income taxpayers may pay balances owing for 1923 income tax, where such tax is being paid in quarterly installments.

The telegram states as follows: "If at the time you filed your Federal income tax return you paid three fourths (¾) of the amount of the tax reported, no further payment will be due."

"If at the time you filed your return you paid one half (½) of the amount of the tax reported, no payment will be due until September 15th."

"If at the time you filed your return you paid only one fourth (¼) of the amount of the tax reported, you must pay on or before June 15 one half (½) of the amount paid by you when you filed your return."

The main point to be borne in mind is that one half (½) of the tax due from you this year must have been paid on or before June 15th.

Nothing is said in the telegram as to what procedure will be followed in refunding the 25 per cent reduction in 1923 income tax to those who have paid in full, but this will no doubt be provided for in a short time.

Notices of the proper amounts to be paid on September 15 and December 15 will be mailed to each taxpayer on the first of each of those months.

JAPAN PLANS BOND ISSUE

New Domestic Bonds Will Be Issued to Provide For Reconstruction Work

Tokio, June 4.—New domestic bonds totaling 155,000,000 yen will be floated by the Japanese government during the fiscal year 1924-25, providing loan market conditions are favorable, according to an announcement by the Department of Finance.

The government must also float conversion issues totalling 419,000,000 yen to take care of old issues maturing within the new fiscal year, from April 1, 1924 to March 31, 1925.

In addition it is hoped to place on the market other issues totalling 79,000,000 yen, which were scheduled for 1923-24, but withheld owing to unfavorable market conditions.

These bring the total of projected domestic loans for the year to 653,000,000 yen.

Reconstruction work made necessary by the earthquake disaster will absorb nearly all the proceeds of the new issues.

The old issues maturing within the new fiscal year are in eight series, principally 5 per cent treasury bonds. Conversion issues will be floated for each series as it expires.

Department of Finance officials state that 121,000,000 yen of the loans recently floated in New York and London will be used at home for reconstruction work.

Roads Built 2,000 Years

The Roman empire was intersected by roads, constructed principally between the Second and Fourth centuries after Christ. These highways varied in width from eight to fifteen feet, and were almost universally built in straight lines without regard to grade, probably because the use of beasts of burden as the chief means of transport made the preservation of the level an affair of minor importance.

Soldiers, slaves and criminals were employed in the construction of these highways, the durability of which is shown by the fact that, in some cases, they have sustained the traffic of 2,000 years without material injury.

The Roman forum is said to have been the point of convergence of 24 roads, radiating to the provinces, a total length of 52,504 Roman miles. The Romans are said to have learned the art of road building from the Carthaginians.—Adventure Magazine.

MARKET NEWS
HIGHER PRICE
IN WHEAT MART

Advance in Winnipeg Reflected in Chicago.

Chicago, June 4.—(By the A. P.)—General commission house buying, due more or less to higher prices at Winnipeg, led to a material upward in the wheat in the Chicago wheat market today during the early dealings. The broadening of demand was explained in some quarters as chiefly the result of the proposed substitute for the defeated McNary-Hayden bill. Other observers express opinions that the buying reflected more confidence in the normal functioning of the market, the likelihood of new legislation having been diminished.

Opening prices, which ranged from 1.8 cents decline to 1.4 cents advance, July 1.65 1/4 to 1.8 cents, and September 1.05 1/8 to 1.4 cents, were followed by a rise all around, more than a cent a bushel for July and September.

Subsequently, reports that the substance of the proposed new farm bill had been submitted to President Coolidge brought about a decided further advance in prices. The close was firm, 1 1/2 cents to 2 1/2 cents net higher, July $1.05 1/4 to 1 1/2 and September $1.06 1/2 to 1.07.

"Received The Tribune O. K. and sure was glad to see the old sheet and read news of the good old home town again," said Harmon in a letter to M. J. O'Connor. "I have traveled fast and far since seeing you and have had not a few experiences."

CHINESE IMPRESSIONS

Since the war, Harmon said, he had covered all the western states, north to south, was into Mexico for several months, and now is in China after seeing Honolulu, Yokohama, Tokio, and Kobe en route. If his plans materialize, he says, he will go around the world, and now is considering two propositions, one in Paris and one in Australia.

"So many people no doubt have the wrong impression of this country," wrote Harmon, of China. "They think it is still half-civilized, etc. Take Shanghai for instance. They have paved streets, electric lights, street cars, many large, fine buildings, clubs, cafes, theatres, golf courses, race tracks, lots of automobiles of every make, size and color, plenty of business, many large manufacturing concerns, in fact everything that goes to making a fine large city. Of course, the masses are the poor class Chinese. There are millions of them everywhere at all hours. Coolies, coolies everywhere. Their outlook on life, present and future, is funny, and also good, especially about death and after. They are satisfied to just exist and are not afraid of death, in fact, welcome it when it comes, as they believe when they die they go to a much better world, where they will get plenty to eat and no work. They laugh at everything. If they see a bad accident, someone killed for instance, it is funny to them. Two or three nights ago, when we went to the cafe to start work, one of the Chinese table boys came to our table, laughing and told us that his baby, two years old, had fallen out of a second story window, to the pavement and broke his head open and had to 'go back,' as they call dying, and he laughed and said it looked funny."

FEDERAL AID IS WELCOMED BY WAR HERO

Ill Fortune Has Followed Alvin C. York, Greatest War Hero

BY ROY GROVE
NKA Service Writer

Pull Mall, Tenn., June 4.—Ill fortune has followed Alvin C. York, called by Marshall Foch "the greatest hero of the World War."

He is hard at work on his 400-acre farm here, given him by the people of Tennessee.

"It will be a long time before I can get it into shape," he explains. "There is a lot of work to be done, clearing and cutting. It costs me nearly $8 a day for the feeding of my stock alone."

"My barn burned down, and I lost nearly everything I had in it. I had hay in there that was three years old. All but two of my cattle were destroyed. The stock we got out run right back into the fire again."

"I was surely hard hit. No insurance. My farm tools were all destroyed. I cannot get much done around here because of my right arm. Sort of rheumatic condition contracted during the war, caused by exposure, I guess."

"Yes, I carry insurance, the old army kind. Cost me about $5.80 a month. Yes, I could claim disability, but I am not."

This man who, almost single-handed, silenced a nest of 35 German machine guns, killed 22 and captured 132 Germans including a major, could have brought him hundreds of thousands of dollars and settled on the deep religious convictions prevented him from accepting movie, vaudeville and lecture contracts.

ONLY A PRIVATE!

Boys never will understand why Babe Ruth (right) of home-run fame was made only a private in the 104th Field Artillery of New York. Here he is with John J. Pershing who is a general despite the fact he never made a home run.

In Congress to give York the status and pay of a retired army captain—$150 a month.

Not a Religious Fanatic

It would come mighty handy and would help a heap," the big red-headed, raw-boned mountaineer told me. "I could certainly use it."

"You know, most people think I am crazy for not accepting all the gold on offers that have been pushed my way."

"I know. I have heard them say. Well, if I had the chance that York has to make a lot of money, I sure would hop to it."

"Folks outside think I am just a religious fanatic. But I am not, though I do believe deeply in religion. Most of the people are no different than I am, and if they were in my shoes and had the fortune or misfortune, as you might call it, to have been through what I have, I know they would understand me and feel the same way I do about commercializing my life."

Would Fight Again

"Then again, there are types of people who would go right out and get the money but I believe God does not give such folks the chance. The boys who are still over in France deserve the everlasting honor of the people of America. The people too soon will forget them."

York was a second elder in "The Church of Christ and Christian Union," a sect strongly opposed to war, when the Brentwood county draft board sent him off to the army. Friends urged him to claim exemption as a "conscientious objector," but York refused.

York's scruples against killing were ried him and he often talked with Captain Danforth, his commanding officer. They discussed the situation from a biblical standpoint, and slowly York became convinced that it was his duty to fight, if necessary.

"If there is another war—" I started to ask him.

"Sure I would go," he declared. "If we had to do some more fighting, I say, let us go and get it over with."

Voting Since 1860
Veteran Is Found Ineligible

Seattle, June 4.—E. W. Blinn, 86, of Seattle, veteran of the Civil War, who voted for Abraham Lincoln twice and who has cast his ballot for every Republican presidential candidate since 1860, has recently found out he is not a citizen and can not vote for a candidate this fall.

When Blinn went to register the clerk of a Seattle registration office found out that he was born in England, that he was not naturalized, thought he had voted since 1860, and that, while he thought his father was a naturalized citizen of the United States, he could not produce a copy of his father's naturalization papers. Blinn's father died 30 years ago.

MARKET NEWS

HIGHER PRICE
IN WHEAT MARTAdvance in Winnipeg Reflected in Chicago

Chicago, June 4.—(By the A. P.)—General commission house buying, due more or less to higher prices at Winnipeg, let to a material upturn in the upturn in the Chicago wheat market today during the early dealings. The broadening of demand was explained in some quarters as chiefly the result of the proposed substitute for the defeated McNary-Haugen bill. Other observers expressed opinions that the buying reflected more confidence in the normal functioning of the market, the likelihood of new legislation having been diminished.

Opening prices, which ranged from 1-8 cents decline to 1-4 cents advance, July 133 1-4 to 3-8 cents, and September 145 1-8 to 1-4 cents, were followed by a rise all around, more than a cent a bushel for July and September.

Subsequently, reports that the substance of the proposed new farm bill had been submitted to President Coolidge brought about a decided further advance in prices. The close was firm, 1 1/2 cents to 2 1/4 cents net higher, July $1.05 1/4 to 1/4 and September $1.06 1/4 to 1/4.

CHICAGO PRODUCE

Chicago, June 4.—Butter higher. Receipts 11,206 tubs. Creamery extras 39 and standards 39 cents; extra firsts 37 to 38 cents; firsts 35 1/2 to 36 1-2 cents; seconds 32 to 34 cents; cheese unchanged; eggs higher; receipts 24,657 cases; firsts 23 to 1-2 cents; ordinary firsts 22 to 1-2 cents; storage pack extras 25 cents; firsts 24 1-2 cents; poultry alive, higher; fowls 22 1-2 to 24 1-2 cents; broilers 23 to 28 cents; roosters 14 cents.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, June 4.—Hog receipts 25,000. Mostly steady to five cents lower. Top $7.50. Cattle receipts 12,000. Local and shipping demand broader. Top market steers $11.25. Sheep receipts 16,000. Slow, few best lambs steady. Others 25 to 50c lower.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR

Minneapolis, June 4.—Flour unchanged. Shipments 41,251 barrels. Bran $17.00 to $18.00.

ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

South St. Paul, June 4.—Cattle receipts 2,000. Beef steers and yearlings very slow. Barely steady. One load heavy steers held above $10.00. Most steers and yearlings of quality and finish to sell from $7.00 to $9.00. Fat she-stock about steady, mostly $4.00 to $6.75. Canners and cutters $2.50 to $3.50. Bologna bulls largely $4.00 to $4.75. Stockers and feeder trade very dull. Calves receipts 3,200. Strong, mostly 25 cents higher. Bulk best lights to packers $7.50.

Hog receipts 12,500. Active, strong. Spots on lower grades five cents higher. Bulk good and choice butchers and bacon hogs $6.90 to $6.95; top $6.95. Packing sows mostly $6.00. Bulk feeder pigs $5.75. Few weighty slaughter pigs and light lights $6.25. Sheep receipts 200. Lambs steady to 25 cents lower. Sheep 50 cents lower. Best spring lambs $15.50. Best light and handyweight ewes quotable at $6.00 to $6.25.

Are we giving too much time to the almighty dollar and too little thought to our children? Here's a powerful story of a family from the first generation to the third. Showing the destructive effect of too much money on the children of today. A big thought in a big picture. From The Popular Novel By Arthur Train

Gold in Mission Altar Proves Mines Existed

Perhaps the most concrete evidence today, pointing to the reality of the legends of early civilization in the Southwest is the altar of San Xavier mission, conducted at the present time by Catholic sisters for the relief of the sick and needy among the Indians. For several hundred years the mission was a cathedral and it is situated a few miles outside of the city of Tucson, Ariz. The altar is built with virgin gold, and pure gold was beaten into the masonry and decorations of the altar when it was constructed early in the seventeenth century.

The records of the mission which have been carefully kept for generations, show that the gold was brought by Indians from the Cana adu del Oro, where it was mined under the direction of Spanish priests. In fact, the old trail by which the precious metal was transported on mules' backs still exists and leads directly from the cathedral into Cana adu del Oro and then down into desert wastes.

The Apaches attacked the mission about one hundred years ago and drove away the priests. For several years the Indian tribes used the building as a stable, but they did not touch the altar of gold. It is believed that they had no interest in gold intrinsically, for their medicine men are thought to have had, even at that late date, complete information about rich deposits of desert gold.—New York Tribune.

Sneeze Greeted in Many Ways in Various Places

"A vos saludis!" (God bless you!)

Now is the season when you hear the expression very frequently. With these words we apostrophe one who sneezes.

Among the Indian tribes of North America, we understand, like a polite question is asked by the sneezer of one's companion: "Who calls me?" When an Eskimo sneezes he says to himself: "Come back to me!" for popular belief has it that the sneeze indicates an escape or flight of the soul.

In the British East Indies it is also believed that part of the soul flies forth at each sneeze; and when the natives hear a friend sneeze, they say: "God protect you!" to which the sneezer's response should be: "And you like wife!" The Chinese believe that a person sneezes because God, turning the pages of the Domesday Book, has paused at his name.

In Portugal, when anyone sneezes, you raise your hat. The Irish and the Russians, like the English, exclaim: "God protect you!" The Italians say: "Felicita!"

As for the English, they don't say anything at all, but they immediately take precautions against a cold in the head, of which the sneeze is supposed to be a warning.—Le Petit Parisien.

He'd Done It Before

"Now dear," remarked Mrs. Subbub to her husband, as he was getting ready to go to the city, "I want you to do a little job for me while you are in town today. Will you go to Gouss's and get me a new rubber?"

"Very well, dear," he replied, and went on his way.

Entering the store some time later, Mr. Subbub gave his order.

"Here are some very pretty ones," said the salesgirl. "What color do you prefer?"

"Doesn't make any difference," was the answer.

"Doesn't make any difference?" echoed the girl. "But don't you think your wife would like a certain color?"

"No, it doesn't make any difference what color or size I get," said Mr. Subbub, sadly. "I shall have to come back tomorrow and have it changed."

Hunting Cheeta

For short distances the cheeta is supposed to be the swiftest quadruped. However, it is not possible to ascribe the honor definitely to any particular animal. The cheeta, which is found in Asia and Africa, is a large tropical cat, slender of body and limb. It is from three to four feet long, with long, bushy tail, marked with numerous dark spots on its sides and back and almost white beneath. It resembles the leopard, and is often called the hunting leopard. The animal resembles the dog in docility. Its fur is not sleek like that of typical cats. It has a long tail, which is somewhat bushy at the end.

Expensively Good

A matter-of-fact father of an embryo poet handed some of the lad's efforts to a distinguished author of verse, and asked for his opinion.

"Well, what's the answer?" queried the successful stockman.

"Aius," sighed the real poet. "Those things are good. I'm afraid you'll have to support Henry the rest of his life."—Writer's Monthly.

Million Americans Go to School of Water Safety

Men, Women and Children Crowding to Join
New Kind of Army Waging War on Drowning Accidents Everywhere

POLICEMAN JACK BYRNES of Utica, N. Y., saved seven persons by forcing illuminating gas out of their lungs and pumping in fresh air. Byrnes the night before sat at a lecture on resuscitation and watched the American Red Cross lecturer demonstrate how to use the hands as pumping apparatus to start breathing that has been stopped by suffocation. One lecture plus an intelligent officer in this case preserved a whole family. At Allston, Mass., an ambulance surgeon put Policeman Rogers to work on a woman gas victim, and he had her breathing normally when she was carried into a hospital.

H. P. Midgley, freshman in Furman University, Greenville, S. C., brought his classmate, H. H. Lott, from the bottom of an eight-foot deep swimming pool. The university coach and another student started pumping operations, and Lott came through the experience safely and a life friend of Midgley, his preserver.

EXPERT RED CROSS LIFE-SAVING DEMONSTRATING
THE BREAKING OF THE "DEATH CLUTCH"

Four boys, totally blind, students at an institution in Watertown, Mass., after seven lessons in the school swimming pool, passed the Red Cross life-savers' tests with an average of 92 per cent, amazing spectators with their stunts in diving and retrieving objects and their deftness in demonstrating the prone-pressure method of resuscitation.

In Gage County, in the extreme southwestern part of Nebraska, where the Big Blue River approaches its diminishing source, 232 adults and youths qualified as water-safety experts, organizing themselves into four corps of life savers.

Million Taking to Water.

The Boy Scouts of America, over 600,000 strong, inaugurate this summer a nation-wide campaign for water safety, with "Every Scout a Swimmer" as their slogan. There are besides 200,000 "lone Scouts" not attached to troops and about 140,000 men leaders, so that this movement will reach close to a million, with instruction that is not only based on self preservation, but on the rescue of others who may be in danger in the water and on the land.

Throughout the country there are today approximately 15,000 men, 8,500 women and 20,500 boys and girls who have qualified by passing the severe examination required to attain the right of proud wearing the Red Cross emblem of a preserver of life.

The foregoing facts and incidents could be multiplied a thousand times and still the marvelous growth and application of life-saving practice and procedure in the United States during the last ten years be merely told in outline.

120,000 Expert Life Savers.

Ten years ago, February 1, the American Red Cross started this work with a single member, and the first life-saving corps was chartered in Baltimore, Md., that year after a swimming tournament between Boy Scouts and the Y. M. C. A. won by the latter. With more than 45,000 members enrolled today and a grand total of 120,000 who have qualified as life savers the record and progress of the Red Cross Corps are little short of amazing.

In the last twenty years, greatly facilitated by the expansion of automobile touring, the pools, rivers, lakes and ocean beaches have become the favorite playgrounds of the people. This growing popularity increased the danger hazards in water sports, giving impetus to the organized activity of the Red Cross to fight to minimize the greater perils of drownings.

Proof of Man's Heroism.

No more heroic figure exists than the gallant individual who risks life in a brave attempt to save another in danger of drowning, for it is the supreme proof of man's ability to forget himself in his concern for the fate of another.

The aim of the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps is to eliminate the preventable loss of life by drowning. Its program embraces widespread circulation of information on water safety; devising of systems of protection, prevention, rescue and resuscitation; organizing with definite patrol and instruction service; giving leadership to co-operating organizations that possess facilities for carrying on instruction in water-safety methods. This program has been developed soundly and steadily. Principles of accident prevention have been devised, systems of protection for bathers standardized, and a complete manual on water safety published.

Heavy Toll of Drownings.

The development of a distinctively preventive service, the very opposite of the all-too-common method of waiting until disaster comes and then attempting to set up bars against repetition, is the practical example of a Red Cross ideal expressed in its charter granted by Congress authorizing the society in time of peace to train its members to render humanitarian service in emergencies. Every year an appalling list of drownings marks the heavy toll of lost lives, usually of victims in the prime of youth. The distress in many of them widows—a chance to be with their children on Saturdays. He renounced wages, so there would be no loss by reason of the shorter week.

But still the money came in. The folks in the plant worked better than ever.

Nash, in desperation of how to escape this great wealth, finally wrote an open letter to the Christian people of America. He had it printed in 30 religious publications.

Answers began rolling in at the rate of 100 a day. Most writers, wanted something for themselves, or for financing pet hobbies.

"They wanted me to steal this money from those to whom it belonged and give it to them," says Nash.

Then he hit upon the answer himself.

He called his employees together, addressing them as "Friends and Fellow Workers."

100 Per Cent Dividend

He announced the 100 per cent dividend. All the employees own stock in the company. Each would share in the dividend. But what of his own share?

"If I personally appropriate the part of our joint production that accumulated in profits," he told them, "I am stealing from you. As far as the law is concerned, of course, I am doing it legitimately.

"But if I must be a thief, I prefer to be one of the gunman type. I shall not even consider taking this dividend.

"I have taken in the past only what was apportioned to me because those in whom I had great faith advised me it seemed to be the only logical working out of the problem.

"This time, however, I am not going to accept a cent of it. It is yours.

"And I hope that within a year or two you will own the business jointly with me."

Recognition after the years' experiences which proved the soundness of the Red Cross purpose to carry out its work of prevention and preservation encourages the belief that in another ten years it will have grown tenfold. The Government has put its seal of approval upon life saving by using the course at the West Point Military Academy and the Annapolis Naval Academy, also by affording instruction under Red Cross experts at camps of the regular army, the reserve officers and the military training centers for civilians.

Men's and women's colleges and State universities, equipped with swimming pools, the summer camps of private schools, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., boys' clubs, high schools in large cities, athletic clubs and local organizations interested in general community safety measures, are actively supporting this service of training in water safety and life saving under Red Cross auspices in every State.

Army of Women Swimmers.

Women's aroused interest in water safety has mobilized an army of swimmers in girls' camps, playground swimming pools, women's colleges and various institutions moving forward to attain a practical accident-proof standard. It is a fact that in this day of co-education the young women's all-around training is considered incomplete if swimming is not a part of their physical education.

Kansas City, Mo., offers an outstanding example. The 300 women experts organized into the Kansas City Corps volunteered to perform life guard and instruction duty so the city could maintain a public bathing resort where all the children might enjoy themselves in safety. It is the natural impulse of women to protect the children, which inspires the belief among life-saving authorities that the day is not far distant when America's children will learn to swim as naturally as they learn to walk.

Backed by Whole Country.

The future of life saving is bright with promise and the Red Cross looks hopefully to the time when every unprotected waterfront will have its corps of members expertly trained in rescue and resuscitation. The hearty aid of Red Cross Chapters in this aim is a great influence in carrying this service to the American people.

H. F. Enlow, National Director of Life Saving, says:

"The maintenance and development of the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps is a distinctly preventive service. It has justified itself through its accomplishments over the period of ten years. It is growing out of a lusty infancy into a stalwart manhood that cannot be denied because it is the expression of common sense actions leading to the fullness of life. Nowhere has it been opposed; everywhere it has been enthusiastically accepted and endorsed. Its future is secure because life saving along water courses has been built upon a sound foundation, and its increasing structure is firmly laid in procedure and method tested in the crucible of practical experience. Every individual who will may freely take of this instruction—and that there are thousands upon thousands who do so will to learn is recorded in the history of the Red Cross Life-Saving Service covering the past decade."

suffering brought into thousands of homes by the annual drownings is awakening the American people out of indifference toward these poignant losses, with the result that in all walks of life very influential support is being accorded the life-saving program.

Recognized by Government.

Recognition after the years' experiences which proved the soundness of the Red Cross purpose to carry out its work of prevention and preservation encourages the belief that in another ten years it will have grown tenfold. ASKS FOREIGN TRADE STUDY BY COLLEGES

Proposes New Manner to Bring Forces Together in Study of Problems

ENTHUSIASM IS NEEDED

Boston, June 1. The creation of a foreign trade students exchange was the proposal today of Henry Howard, of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, before the National Trade Convention as the most practical manner of bringing the university foreign trade student and the business man of the United States together in solving the problem of how to stabilize the foreign trade career for young Americans.

Mr. Howard said that it seemed to him that if such a students exchange were established by the Educational Committee of the National Foreign Trade Council, in New York, this would solve in some measure present difficulties.

Mr. Howard's proposal came at the end of the session which was presided over by Dean W. E. Gray, of the Ames Tuck School of Administration and Finance, Dartmouth College.

Mr. Howard's subject was "What Business Men Think About the Foreign Trade Career," and his proposal was the conclusion of a lengthy address in which he submitted the opinions of a wide range of business men. He said that to date many business men had taken a rather patronizing point of view toward the foreign trade student, whereas many distinct advantages could be derived from the use of such men in American foreign trade.

Need Enthusiasm

He said, for one thing, that the enthusiasm of youth was needed to prevent hardening of the arteries in certain offices. He said that corporations and firms should look on such men in the same light that they have come to look on engineering men and other technical students whom they take after graduation.

Mr. Howard continued: "It seems to me that in general the proper training for the manufacturer to give to a student graduate from a foreign trade course is, first, to put him into the works in order to give him a practical knowledge of the

Divides Dividend With Employees to Escape Being a Millionaire

By NEA Service.
Cincinnati, June 4.—"Golden Rule" Nash is happy.

He has escaped becoming a millionaire.

The $600,000 stock dividend which would have made him one has not passed through his hands.

He has divided it among the 1000 employees in his garment factory here.

So Arthur Nash—that is the way "Golden Rule" signs his check—will not be the only one in the plant who is going around with a broad smile these days.

"You have made this money for me," he told his employees, "So it is yours."

"I would be a robber—say, a traitor or worse than Judas Iscariot were I to accept a penny of it."

Nash's conscience had been troubled for weeks. The "golden rule" he had been following in his business was making him rich.

He had started out in a small way. Now, after a few years, it was necessary for him to seek larger quarters. His business already had outgrown two factory buildings.

"Golden Rule" was worried. At the rate the money was coming in, he soon would be a millionaire. And a million dollars, he sensed, was too much for any man to have.

The owner of the million, he reasoned, had not created it all himself. Therefore it morally did not belong to him.

35-Hour Week

But what was he going to do with it? To whom would he give it?

He inaugurated a 35-hour week in his plant—five days of seven hours each. That gave his employees—

New Domestic Bonds Will Be Issued to Provide For Reconstruction Work

Tokio, June 4.—New domestic bond issues totalling 155,000,000 yen will be floated by the Japanese government during the fiscal year 1924-25, providing loan market conditions are favorable according to an announcement by the Department of Finance.

The government must also float conversion issues totalling 410,000,000 yen to take care of old issues maturing within the new fiscal year, from April 1, 1924 to March 31, 1925.

In addition it is hoped to place on the market other issues totalling 79,000,000 yen which were scheduled for 1923-24, but withheld owing to unfavorable market conditions.

These bring the total of projected domestic loans for the year to 653,000,000 yen.

Reconstruction work made necessary by the earthquake disaster will absorb nearly all the proceeds of the new issues.

The old issues maturing within the new fiscal year are in eight series, principally 5 percent treasury bonds. Conversion issues will be floated for

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

BIG

Small banks earn a higher percentage of profit than big banks. This is discovered through a survey by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. For instance, one big bank with a million dollars to loan will usually make less money from it than if it were distributed among 10 country bankers, each using $100,000.

The reverse often holds true in business and is a factor in the high cost of living. There is a point in the development of large corporations and semi-monopolies where the economies made possible by size are eclipsed by overhead and other expenses due to size. We might all be more prosperous if many of our large corporations were dissolved into chains of small businesses, if not too small.

PROPHECY

Wise old Thomas Jefferson, who drafted the Declaration of Independence, more than a century ago made his prediction.

"Our rulers will become corrupt, our people careless. The people will forget themselves in the sole faculty of making money and will never think of uniting to effect a due respect for their rights."

After reading this and pondering national conditions in 1924, few will deny that Jefferson was uncannily clairvoyant.

CROOKS

Three hundred thousand professional criminals in our country, reports the National Surety Company. That's a low estimate. It doesn't include the profiteers and petty cheaters who operate within the law.

The professional criminals each year steal 3000 million dollars of American money and property. This is only a shadow of the stealing by the aforementioned profiteers and petty cheaters.

Dishonesty begins wherever full value is not given for price paid or services rendered.

FIRES

The destroyed 508 million dollars worth of American property in 1923, the underwriters estimate. Enough to pay several soldier bonuses.

Fully three-fourths of these fires are preventable. Especially forest fires. Camping season is at hand. Never break camp until absolutely sure the fire is completely extinguished. Never throw away glowing matches or cigaret stubs in the woods or from the window of a train. A little more caution on the part of all of us will hold down one factor of high cost of living—fires.

COTTON

England's running a campaign to make the British Empire independent of American cotton. This campaign is "assuming alarming proportions," reports Bartlett, president of N. Y. Cotton Exchange. In Australia and South Africa, cotton plantations are springing up galore. And yet it will be many years before British growers can begin to replace the losses due to the boll weevil in America.

This little beetle may destroy our cotton export trade.

MOVING STATISTICS

Nearly a fifth of the nation's farmers moved in 1922, the government learns by checking up. Some were driven away by financial necessity. More were lured by the cities or by lands at a distance.

With a fifth of the farms changing occupants in one year, farming losses, much of its old-time stability. The migratory spirit apparently is stronger in the country than in cities. The readjustment of owners and tenants continues. In the long run, farming probably will be better off for it.

BIKES

This is hard to believe, but it's true: Americans are using more bicycles now than during the "bicycle craze" 25 years ago.

The auto didn't put the bicycle industry out of business, though it did paralyze it for a while.

The process will repeat when airplanes come by the millions. We'll need all the planes we can get, also the autos. There is room for both. The new no longer displaces the old, they help each other.

LEADER

The big telephone company will put 150 million dollars worth of additional stock on the markets. This will give it a total of about 900 million dollars worth of stocks, passing even U. S. Steel and making it the world's leader among corporations in the matter of stock capitalization.

We certainly pay a lot of money to gratify our desire to talk.

STOLEN

Auto thefts increase steadily. In 28 leading cities last year, about 40,000 cars were stolen. Over 32,000 were recovered. The "not found" cars were 18 per cent of the total stolen, compared with 29 per cent in 1920 and 1921.

Auto theft is becoming a more difficult game. Another factor is the increasing number of cars stolen temporarily, for criminal expeditions, and abandoned after the crime and getaway.

A WORD TO GOV. SMITH

The managers of Governor Smith's presidential candidacy are reported to be endeavoring to induce the New York Democrats in Congress to support the McNary-Haugen bill in order to win mid-western votes for Governor Smith in the Democratic National convention.

There is something like desperation among the proponents of this measure for creation of a $200,000,000 corporation to dump American farm products abroad. The bill is near defeat. The congressional supporters privately admit that the measure would do no good, but they declare they must enact it in order to save their faces with their constituents. And now it is declared that Tammany Hall is seeking a bargain whereby votes in Congress would be traded for votes in the convention.

Governor Smith must know that the McNary-Haugen bill is a pretense, as hollow as a loving cup. He must know that there is only one kind of farm relief bill which is justifiable by the laws of economics, and that that kind of bill is nothing but a subsidy, a measure frankly voting a gift to needy farmers because they need it, just as gifts of money have been sent abroad because Europe has needed it.

These facts must be well known to Governor Smith, for he is a man of intelligence. As governor of New York, he has demonstrated a knowledge of how to exercise his great power. He has given an efficient administration which has won praise throughout the state and which has put him among the leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination. The trust of the business community of New York State is one of his principal assets.

He would be throwing this trust to the winds, he would be depriving himself of the opportunity to win the trust of the entire American business community, if he permitted his managers to make such a trade as is reported.

With the death of Charles F. Murphy, Governor Smith is the real leader of Tammany Hall. If Tammany Democrats now vote for the McNary-Haugen bill, which admittedly would impose an additional burden of at least a billion dollars upon the American consumers, Governor Smith will be held largely responsible.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

A CHAIR OF JAZZ

The great Guggenheimer have been the supporters of typically American institutions and it is therefore not surprising to find one of them advancing the cause of American music.

Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer, chairman of the Philharmonic Orchestra association of New York City, is urging the establishment in the American academy at Rome of a "chair of jazz."

This seems at first a sufficiently startling proposal, but Mrs. Guggenheimer justifies the suggestion well. She finds in jazz not the turbulent, tympanum torturing discord which was first labeled jazz, but the refinement of syncopation which has inherited the name—the first truly American art expression. Its universal appeal, she insists, proves that it is worthy of study and development. And since it is one of the great Guggenheimer who speak, one feels that she must be right.

The reputation of jazz has profited by the recent bruiting abroad of the fact that Brahms made frequent use of syncopation.

The recent adaptation of the same musical principle has certainly its allurements and the very real contribution which the better exponents of jazz have made to music in the matter of orchestration tend to justify it further.

The argument that the virtue of jazz will be degraded by self-conscious experimentation does not apply for the reason that jazz has been from the first a sophisticated exposition.

Those who especially admire jazz even repudiate the negro melody as the ancestor of the present form. Whether jazz will be a permanent contributor to music no one can safely predict, but certainly it is worthy of study as a very extraordinary phenomenon. It is not impossible that out of it will come something which will truly record in tone the genius of America.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

FOR PLATOU

Dr. L. S. Platou, former mayor of this city, is a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket, and from reports from the country precincts in this county, he is going to get a nice vote in Barnes county. In Green township nearly one hundred farmers have signed up as democrats in order to give Dr. Platou a boost which shows a bright fine spirit on their part. The same thing has been done around Kathryn and other points. If we are to have a democratic governor this paper is strong for Dr. Platou. We believe him to be the best man now running on the democratic ticket and we hope Barnes county will give him a rousing democratic vote. If L. S. Platou should by chance be elected governor of North Dakota—he would be governor—and he would do the very best in him to give the state a good administration—and he would do it. Give the former mayor your vote if you are voting the democratic ticket.—Valley City Times Record.

FABLES ON HEALTH
GAINING AND LOSING

As in most cities the questions of gaining weight and reducing were popular topics for small talk in Anytown.

How to take on a little weight was a matter that attracted as much difference of opinion as how to get thin—and few agreed.

Certain fundamental foods for weight gaining are now generally accepted and agreed upon by persons who have made a study of dietetics:

These are—first: CREAM AND BUTTER AND PLENTY OF THEM. Toast at breakfast, with plenty of butter.

Oil, salad dressing, milk and butter in "cream sauces," rice, macaroni and flour mixtures for starches and plenty of milk.

Drinking of milk, between meals, is advisable. If possible, milk rich in cream should be secured.

A short rest after eating helps where persons affected can take the time. Such a rest will greatly speed up the weight gaining process.

The chief trouble is that a great many thin persons are of the "tension variety," and it is difficult for them to gain unless they can arrange for more rest and take from their shoulders the weight of the world.

Otherwise nervous indigestion is likely to follow an attempt at weight gaining.

"That's better," whispered Daddy Cracknuts. "It won't split our ear-drums."

So Mister Coon pulled another handle and instantly a voice came out of the horn, saying, "Once upon a time a little—squeee—squeee—squeee—squeee—roar—roar—whirr—whooop—eeeee!"

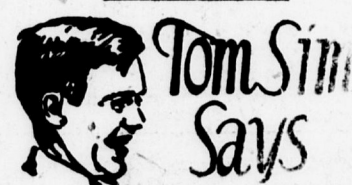

"My goodness!" exclaimed Grandma Frog, "I should think that would wake up all the babies this side of Canada. That's a most remarkable bedtime story!"

"Yes, isn't it?" remarked Mrs. Chipmunk. "Oh, there! Listen, now." The voice in the horn went on: "And one day he went to school and—bang—whang—squeal, roar, shriek!" it finished with a wail.

"My, my! I'd hate to send my child to that school," said Mrs. Groundhog.

"It's very late and we'll have to be going," said Mrs. Bunny. "Good-night, Mister Coon. 'We've all had a nice time at your party.' And out they went—all of them. They hadn't any more than turned the corner when the radio set began to behave itself beautifully. The Twins and the fairymen stayed and heard ten pieces played by a circus band.

BOOTLEGGERS LAUGH

By Albert Apple

The breakdown of prohibition in so many parts of the country, is not due primarily to shortage of enforcement agents. Nor to bribery. Nor to increased cunning by the liquor ring.

The real trouble is the disappearance of the campaign against John Barleycorn as an economic evil and destroyer of its victims.

When the United States went dry, about 2200 of its approximately 2500 counties already had adopted prohibition, either by local option or state legislation.

NATIONAL prohibition really affected only the remaining wet districts—a mere fraction of the whole country.

These 2200-odd counties had gone dry voluntarily—by consent of a majority of the people. They went dry as a result of years and years of educational and emotional campaigning against alcohol as an evil.

King Alcohol was preached against, lectured against, written against. He became disreputable, was banished.

But as soon as national prohibition went into effect, the educational campaign against him ceased. Temperance became a matter of obeying the law rather than of personal common sense.

Public memory is short. People are forgetting the evils of alcoholic abuse. A new generation, that was too young to be impressed by the temperance campaign, is growing up and toting hip flasks.

Prohibition is a farce in many sections because it is an attempt to stop the SELLING of booze instead of stopping the DRINKING of booze.

Booze is a temperance problem. But few look at it in that light. Instead, they look on it as a matter of obeying a piece of legislation rushed through Congress when millions of voters were overseas in the army and soft drink and other lobbies manipulating wartime patriotic hysteria to their own purposes.

Prohibition is a problem of thirst rather than of quencher—of the desire to buy rather than the eagerness to sell it for profit.

And prohibition will continue to be a failure until it is approached sensibly as a temperance problem. Some believe that light wines and beer are the ways to temperance. Others disagree. One of these days there'll be a showdown.

LETTER FROM MARY ALDEN
PRESOTT TO MRS. LESLIE
PRESOTT

MY DEAR DAUGHTER:

I hope you will not think me selfish when I tell you that I shall be glad to see you when you return, and I know that Jack misses you very, very much. However, he has been very busy since you have been away. He has not had time to have dinner with me but three times, but he has always made quite a party of it—once he invited the minister to dine with us, and twice your friends, Mrs. Ellington and Mrs. Atherton.

I like your lady friends very much, particularly Mrs. Atherton, who at first rather shocked me by appearing so soon after her husband's death in a hat with pink roses on it. However, during the course of the evening she remarked that a business woman had no right to indulge in great grief or great joy to the detriment of her work, and either one of these would be noticed by the stranger who came into the office where she worked daily. I knew immediately that she didn't wear mourning on that account, although I couldn't just realize how she would make her great happiness visible to strangers.

I'm wearing the beautiful caps that Mrs. Ellington had made for me. The other day Miss Anderson and I went down to the lingerie shop. I did not know that good women wore such delicate and expensive underwear. I rather wondered, as Miss Anderson held up an indestructible garment which she called a teddybear, made of chiffon, what my mother would have said had she seen it—my mother, who always insisted upon us wearing flannel underclothes in the winter. I know that she would have said that there was something wrong with the mind of a woman who would wear transparent underclothes, and I have the same feeling.

Neither Miss Anderson nor Mrs. Ellington seemed to think anything about it, so I didn't make any remarks; but to you, my dear daughter, I can unburden myself, because when you were at my house I noticed that although your underwear was of the finest of linen and batiste, and made with the utmost care by hand, its laces and embroidery, perhaps more expensive than I had been accustomed to, there were no colored chiffons among them.

It may be a modern idiosyncrasy, my dear, but I am glad you haven't. By the way, I think I have found a place where that secret drawer might be concealed. At least I have found a place on the outside of the desk that doesn't seem to be filled by a corresponding receptacle on the inside. When you come home I will show it to you and we can open it together if we find it is right.

Little John Alden, Jr. is wonderful. He knows his grandmother all ready and reaches out his tiny arms to her whenever I come near. He shows signs of trying to walk, but he will walk and talk very soon.

Lovingly your mother,
MARY ALDEN PRESOTT.

MANY WOMEN
PARTICIPATE IN CONVENTION

Cleveland, Ohio, June 4.—(A. P.)—

Among the numbers of unusual women who will participate in the Republican national convention here today is a woman who undertook to conquer Democratic weather.

In her state, Kentucky, the elements are said to conspire particularly at times with the topography of the eastern section, and to oppose their combined forces in the west of the state of Ajax, Va., alternate at large, will be the special representative of Bascom Slemp, Mr. Coolidge's secretary. Mrs. Charles Sabin, daughter of Paul Morton, a member of Roosevelt's cabinet, will be a delegate-at-large from New York state. Mrs. Anna W. Vaile of Denver, Colo., is an associate member of the national arrangement committee.

She is Mrs. A. T. Hert of Louisville, Ky., a member of the national committee on arrangements for the convention. It was during the last gubernatorial campaign in Kentucky that Mrs. Hert opened her fight to redistrict the state in such a way "that the election may be determined."

Tries Kellogg's Bran—restores health
after 12 years of intense suffering

Mr. Firth writes that he suffered for 12 years from constipation and his friend for 10 years—a total of 22 years' suffering permanently relieved by Kellogg's Bran, 'cooked and krumbled.'

Gentlemen: For 12 years I had been troubled with indigestion caused mostly by constipation. Until about a year ago, I would suffer from 4 to 20 weeks at a time.

I happened to see your Krumbled Bran in a store, purchased a package and got almost immediate relief. I am still eating the Krumbled Bran every day.

The most wonderful results obtained with your Krumbled Bran I will now relate. A gentleman who has been taking medicine for about 10 years for constipation could not find anything to give him relief. Three weeks ago I advised him to try Krumbled Bran. He had told him what wonderful results I had gotten from it. The gentleman in question purchased a box, and he told me that for the first time in ten years he is regular without taking medicine.

Yours for success,
William Firth, Jr., 16 Volan St.,
Merchantville, N. J.

Eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. The flavor is delicious. Try it in the recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

Alumni Banquet At Country Club Is Pretty Affair

The Alumni Association of the Bismarck Hospital held their annual banquet last evening at the country club, at which they entertained the Seniors, the class of 1924. This committee on arrangements was composed of Mrs. A. Bloomer, Mrs. Henry Hanson, Mrs. Carl Knudson, Mrs. H. A. Brandes, Miss Emma Lind, Miss H. Teichman, Mrs. H. R. Topping, all former graduates of the hospital. The committee called to the graduating class at the hospital in cars to escort them to the country club.

Covers were laid for fifty which is a very large representation and shows the excellent spirit of cooperation of the hospital's former graduates. The rooms were beautifully decorated with the class colors, yellow and white. The tables were decorated with small black baskets of yellow roses. The place cards were hand-painted ladies, while the favors were vari-colored balloons. Wagner orchestra furnished the music.

Miss H. Teichman gave the toast of welcome to the Seniors, to which Miss Nellie Reeshagen responded for the Seniors in a very clever toast.

After the banquet groups were formed, each group to think of an original stunt. The singing group won the prize which was a beautiful box of candy. The rest of the evening's entertainment was in the form of a Carnival which all enjoyed and which helped to bring old members and new of the association in closer relation.

CONVENTION OF W. C. T. U. IS HELD SUCCESS

District Meeting Is Held at Crystal Springs—Golden Jubilee Dinner Served

ADDRESSES ARE GIVEN

The Fifteenth annual convention of the W. C. T. U. of the 11th district which met at Crystal Springs last Friday and Saturday was a success in every way. The union at Crystal Springs did all in their power for the comfort of the delegates.

The Golden Jubilee Dinner was served in the gymnasium of the school house, the room being decorated with streamers, posters, plants and cut flowers. Mrs. Edna Burton gave one of the best addresses of welcome that it has been our pleasure to hear for some time. An appropriate response was given by Mrs. C. D. Rogers. A large cake, with fifty candles on it, each candle representing a year since the W. C. T. U. was established, was placed on a small table between the longer tables. Mrs. Neelia Buck representing the voice of Prohibition requested Thelma Hansen as Spirit of Prohibition, to light the candles and four larger candles in honor of the years since the 1st, 10th, 20th and 30th were placed in the national constitution. "Who and why not?" slips were pressed to ten women who had reasons to go to vote. Each woman gave a reason for one million women who did not vote and seventeen women represented the 17 million who made excuses for not voting. At the close of the banquet a Union Signal demonstration was put on by two ladies from the local union and the young son of Mrs. Burton. It was entitled "What the Paper Tells Us." The boy certainly did his part as naturally as though in his home.

Addresses Given

The addresses given by Mr. Chas. Lissaman on "Law Enforcement" and Mrs. Neelia Buck on "The Greater Task Ahead" were exceedingly instructive as well as entertaining. The vocal solos rendered by Miss Alice Stans of Steele, accompanied by Miss Jennie Montgomery of Tappen were greatly enjoyed. The evening session closed with the members repeating the state motto.

The Saturday morning session opened with the reading of the Crusade Psalm (146) by Mrs. Sara Ankenmann of Bismarck. Short prayers were given by several of the delegates. Mrs. Meiers closing the devotionals. Reports from the unions showed a great growth since the last convention. Bismarck reported 24 honorary members, also the superintending of two Loyol Temperance meetings of about 10 members each, one in Bismarck, the other at the Indian School, and the placing of a drinking fountain and rustic bench in Coster Park, also the maintenance of the Rest Room at the Mandan Fair. Crystal Springs reported that they had been instrumental in arresting several men who have been selling liquor and the cases are now pending in court. Other unions gave favorable reports.

The question box contained many pertinent questions which were answered by Mrs. Buck and Mrs. Lissaman.

Mrs. Rosvold of Driscoll read a very interesting paper on Anti-narcotics.

The convention proceeded with the election of officers when little William Sweeney who is seven years old came in dressed in play clothes, requested that he also be made a recruit. The ceremony was repeated and the White ribbon tied on his little wrist.

The resolution committee reported and a rising vote of thanks was extended to L. J. Siljan of the State Record of Bismarck for the donation of the programs for the convention.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Ella C. Boies, Bismarck; Vice-president, Mrs. Sara Ankenmann, Bismarck; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. C. W. Smith, Bismarck; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Edna Burton, Crystal Springs; Treasurer, Mr. C. D. Rogers, McKenzie.

The convention adjourned. We were invited to the gymnasium again and were served with a lunch of sandwiches and coffee and the large cake which adorned the table the evening before.—(Contributed)

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE

"His Children's Children" which is being shown at the Eltinge theatre today and tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday, is taken from the popular story by Arthur Train. The story is one of the multi-millionaire railroad magnate who on his fifth birthday comes to the decision that he is going to "play off." His three daughters, Diana, (Shelia and Claudia), have become almost strangers in his household. Always on the go, Diana and Shelia, for Claudia has been unfortunate in her marriage with a scapegrace Englishman, find little if any time to devote to household duties. They are ultra-modern young women with but one aim in life, enjoyment, found through the artificial channels of dope, greenwith Village and the like. Peter B. Kyne, the old grandfather, is unable to restrain them.

For real, genuine interesting entertainment go to the Capitol theatre and see Charles Chaplin's first dramatic production, "A Woman of Paris," with Edna Purviance. This United Artists attraction, which is playing an engagement in the Capitol, is one of the real treats which are so often sought, but so rarely seen, in pictures.

This poignant drama of life carries one through a phase of Parisian life, following the career of Marie St. Clair as though one had known this interesting character oneself, that one feels one is a part of the drama being enacted.

Of the total area of Switzerland, 28.4 per cent is unproductive.

CONVENTION OF W. C. T. U. IS HELD SUCCESS

District Meeting Is Held at Crystal Springs—Golden Jubilee Dinner Served

ADDRESSES ARE GIVEN

The Fifteenth annual convention of the W. C. T. U. of the 11th district which met at Crystal Springs last Friday and Saturday was a success in every way. The union at Crystal Springs did all in their power for the comfort of the delegates.

The Golden Jubilee Dinner was served in the gymnasium of the school house, the room being decorated with streamers, posters, plants and cut flowers. Mrs. Edna Burton gave one of the best addresses of welcome that it has been our pleasure to hear for some time. An appropriate response was given by Mrs. C. D. Rogers. A large cake, with fifty candles on it, each candle representing a year since the W. C. T. U. was established, was placed on a small table between the longer tables. Mrs. Nécia Buck representing the voice of prohibition requested Thelma Liessman as Spirit of Prohibition, to light the candles and four larger candles representing the years since the Eighteenth amendment was placed in the national constitution.

"Why and why not?" slips were passed to ten women who had reasons to go to vote. Each woman gave a reason for one million women who did not vote and seventeen women represented the 17 million who made excuses for not voting.

At the close of the banquet a Union Signal demonstration was put on by two ladies from the local union and the young son of Mrs. Burton. It was entitled "What the Paper Tells Us." The boy certainly did his part as naturally as though in his home.

Addresses Given

The addresses given by Mr. Chas. Liessman on "Law Enforcement" and Mrs. Nécia Buck on "The Greater Task Ahead" were exceedingly instructive as well as entertaining. The vocal solos rendered by Miss Alice Stans of Steele, accompanied by Miss Jennie Montgomery of Tappan were greatly enjoyed. The evening session closed with the members repeating the state motto.

The Saturday morning session opened with the reading of the Crusade Psalm (146) by Mrs. Sara Ankenmann of Bismarck. Short prayers were given by several of the delegates. Mrs. Meiers closing the devotionals. Reports from the unions showed a great growth since the last convention. Bismarck reported 24 honorary members, also the superintending of two Loyal Temperance Leagues, of about 19 members each, one in Bismarck, the other at the Indian School, and the placing of a drinking fountain and rustic bench in Custer Park, also the maintenance of the Rest Room at the Mandan Fair. Crystal Springs reported that they had been instrumental in arresting several men who have been selling liquor and the cases are now pending in court. Other unions gave favorable reports.

The question box contained many pertinent questions which were answered by Mrs. Buck and Mrs. Liessman.

Mrs. Rosvold of Driscoll read a very interesting paper on Anti-narcotics.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

BIG

Small banks earn a higher percentage of profit than big banks. This is discovered through a survey by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. For instance, one big bank with a million dollars to loan will usually make less money from it than if it were distributed among 10 country bankers, each using $100,000.

The reverse often holds true in business and is a factor in the high cost of living. There is a point in the development of large corporations and semi-monopolies where the economies made possible by size are eclipsed by overhead and other expenses due to size. We might all be more prosperous if many of our large corporations were dissolved into chains of small businesses, if not too small.

PROPHECY

Wise old Thomas Jefferson, who drafted the Declaration of Independence, more than a century ago made his prediction.

"Our rulers will become corrupt, our people careless. The people will forget themselves in the sole faculty of making money and will never think of uniting to effect a due respect for their rights."

After reading this and pondering national conditions in 1924, few will deny that Jefferson was uncannily clairvoyant.

CROOKS

Three hundred thousand professional criminals in our country, reports the National Surety Company. That's a low estimate. It doesn't include the profiteers and petty cheaters who operate within the law.

The professional criminals each year steal 3000 million dollars of American money and property. This is only a shadow of the stealing by the aforementioned profiteers and petty cheaters.

Dishonesty begins wherever full value is not given for price paid or services rendered.

FIRES

Estimated 508 million dollars worth of American property in 1923, the underwriters estimate. Enough to pay several soldiers' bonuses.

Fully three-fourths of these fires are preventable. Especially forest fires. Camping season is at hand. Never break camp until absolutely sure the fire is completely extinguished. Never throw away glowing matches or cigaret stubs in the woods or from the window of a train. A little more caution on the part of all of us will hold down one factor of high cost of living—fires.

COTTON

England's running a campaign to make the British Empire independent of American cotton. This campaign is "assuming alarming proportions," reports Bartlett, president of N. Y. Cotton Exchange. In Australia and South Africa, cotton plantations are springing up galore. And yet it will be many years before British growers can begin to replace the losses due to the boll weevil in America.

This little beetle may destroy our cotton export trade.

MOVING STATISTICS

Nearly a fifth of the nation's farmers moved in 1922, the government learns by checking up. Some were driven away by financial necessity. More were lured by the cities or by lands at a distance.

With a fifth of the farms changing occupants in one year, farming loses much of its old-time stability. The migratory spirit apparently is stronger in the country than in cities. The readjustment of owners and tenants continues. In the long run, farming probably will be better off for it.

BIKES

This is hard to believe, but it's true. Americans are using more bicycles now than during the "bicycle craze" 25 years ago.

The auto didn't put the bicycle industry out of business, though it did paralyze it for a while.

The process will repeat when airplanes come by the millions. We'll need all the planes we can get, also all the autos. There is room for both. The new no longer displaces the old, they help each other.

LEADER

The big telephone company will put 150 million dollars worth of additional stock on the markets. This will give it a total of about 900 million dollars worth of stocks, passing even U. S. Steel and making it the world's leader among corporations in the matter of stock capitalization.

We certainly pay a lot of money to gratify our desire to talk.

STOLEN

Auto thefts increase steadily. In 28 leading cities last year, about 40,000 cars were stolen. Over 32,000 were recovered. The "not found" cars were 18 per cent of the total stolen, compared with 29 per cent in 1920 and 1921.

Auto theft is becoming a more difficult game. Another factor is the increasing number of cars stolen temporarily, for criminal expeditions, and abandoned after the crime and getaway.

A WORD TO GOV. SMITH

The managers of Governor Smith's presidential candidacy are reported to be endeavoring to induce the New York Democrats in Congress to support the McNary-Haugen bill in order to win mid-western votes for Governor Smith in the Democratic National convention.

There is something like desperation among the proponents of this measure for creation of a $200,000,000 corporation to dump American farm products abroad. The bill is near defeat. Its congressional supporters privately admit that the measure would do no good, but they declare they must enact it in order to save their faces with their constituents. And now it is disclosed that Tammany Hall is seeking a bargain whereby votes in Congress would be traded for votes in the convention.

Governor Smith must know that the McNary-Haugen bill is a pretense, as hollow as a loving cup. He must know that there is only one kind of farm relief bill which is justifiable by the laws of economics, and that that kind of bill is nothing but a subsidy. A measure is frankly voting a gift to needy farmers because they need it. Just as gifts of money have been sent abroad because Europe has needed it.

These facts must be well known to Governor Smith, for he is a man of intelligence. As governor of New York, he has demonstrated a knowledge of how to exercise his great power. He has given an efficient administration which has won praise throughout the state and which has put him among the leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination. The trust of the business community of New York State is one of his principal assets.

He would be throwing this trust to the winds, he would be depriving himself of the opportunity to win the trust of the entire American business community if he permitted his managers to make such a trade as is reported.

With the death of Charles F. Murphy, Governor Smith is the real leader of Tammany Hall. If Tammany Democrats now vote for the McNary-Haugen bill, which admittedly would impose an additional burden of at least a billion dollars upon the American consumer, Governor Smith will be held largely responsible.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

A CHAIR OF JAZZ

The great Guggenheimers have ever been the supporters of typically American institutions and it is therefore not surprising to find one of them advancing the cause of American music.

Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheim, chairman of the Philharmonic Orchestra association of New York City, is urging the establishment in the American academy at Rome of a "chair of jazz."

This seems at first a sufficiently startling proposal, but Mrs. Guggenheim justifies the suggestion well. She finds jazz not the turbulent typhoon of a torturing discord which was first labeled jazz, but the refinement of syncopation which has inherited the name—the first truly American art expression. Its universal appeal, she insists, proves that it is worthy of study and development. And since it is one of the great Guggenheimers who speaks, one feels that she must be right.

The reputation of jazz has profited from the brazen braiding abroad of the "hot" rhythms made frequent use of syncopation. The American adaptation of the same musical principle has certainly its allurements and the very real contribution which the better exponents of jazz have made to music in the matter of orchestration tend to justify it further.

The argument that the virtue of jazz will be lost by self-conscious experimentation does not apply, for the reason that jazz has been from the first a sophisticated exposition.

Those who especially admire jazz even repudiate the negro melody as the ancestor of the present form.

Whether jazz will be a permanent contribution to music, no one can safely predict, but certainly it is worthy of study as a very extraordinary phenomenon. It is not impossible that out of it will come something which will truly record in tone the genius of America.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

FOR PLATO

Dr. L. S. Platon, former mayor of this city, is a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket, and from reports from the country precincts in this county, he is going to get a nice vote in Barnes county. In Green township nearly one hundred farmers have signed up as democrats in order to give Dr. Platon a boost, which shows a mighty fine spirit on their part. The same thing has been done around Kathryn and other points. If we are to have a democratic governor this year is strong for Dr. Platon. We believe him to be the best man now running on the democratic ticket, and we hope Barnes county will give him a roaring democratic vote. If L. S. Platon should by chance be elected governor of North Dakota—he would be governor—and he would do the very best in him to give the state a good administration—and he would do it. Give the former mayor your vote if you are voting the democratic ticket.—Valley City Times Record.

FABLES ON HEALTH

GAINING AND LOSING

As in most cities the questions of gaining weight and reducing were popular topics for small talk in Anytown.

How to take on a little weight was a matter of opinion as to how to get thin—and few agreed.

Certain fundamental foods for weight gaining are now generally accepted and agreed upon by persons who have made a study of dietetics.

These are—first: CREAM AND BUTTER AND PLENTY OF THEM. Toast at breakfast, with plenty of butter.

Oil, salad dressing, milk and butter in "cream sauces," rice, macaroni and flour mixtures for starches and plenty of milk.

Drinking of milk, between meals, is advisable. If possible, milk rich in cream should be secured.

A short rest after eating helps where persons affected can take the time. Such a rest will greatly speed up the weight gaining process.

The chief trouble is that a great many thin persons are of the "tension variety," and it is difficult for them to gain unless they can arrange for more rest and take from their shoulders the weight of the world.

Otherwise nervous indigestion is likely to follow an attempt at weight gaining.

Groundhog. "They do have queer voices in New York, don't they, Mrs. Groundhog?"

"It isn't just right yet," said Mister Coon. "The air isn't right."

"No, I'd say it wasn't exactly right," grinned Mister Bunny nudging Old Daddy Cracknuts. "I've heard a good many airs but none exactly like that."

Mr. Coon pulled out some more knobs and pushed in some other knobs and the little lights went blink, and suddenly there was a shriek like the 9 o'clock curfew whistle.

"Oh, oh, oh!" shrieked the Green Wood ladies, covering up their ears. "That must be Grand Opera! Such loud singing makes us deaf. Do they sing that way in New York, Mister Coon?"

Mister Coon blushed. "There is something wrong," he explained nervously. "Sometimes it's a little loud to make it work right."

The Twins and the fairymen tried to help him fix things. "I think it's all right now," said Nick. "Try to get some other place, Mister Coon."

"I will tune in on Chicago," said Mister Coon, "and we will hear a bedtime story."

BOOTLEGGERS LAUGH

By Albert Apple

The breakdown of prohibition in so many parts of the country, is not due primarily to shortage of enforcement agents. Nor to bribery. Nor to increased cunning by the liquor ring.

The real trouble is the disappearance of the campaign against John Barleycorn as an economic evil and destroyer of its victims.

When the United States went dry, about 2200 of its approximately 2500 counties already had adopted prohibition, either by local option or state legislation.

NATIONAL prohibition really affected only the remaining wet districts—a mere fraction of the whole country.

These 2200-odd counties had gone dry voluntarily—by consent of a majority of the people. They went dry as a result of years and years of educational and emotional campaigning against alcohol as an evil.

King Alcohol was preached against, lectured against, written against. He became disreputable, was banished.

But as soon as national prohibition went into effect, the educational campaign against him ceased. Temperance became a matter of obeying the law rather than of personal common sense.

Public memory is short. People are forgetting the evils of alcoholic abuse. A new generation, that was too young to be impressed by the temperance campaign, is growing up and toting hip flasks.

Prohibition is a farce in many sections because it is an attempt to stop the SELLING of booze instead of stopping the DRINKING of booze.

Booze is a temperance problem. But few look at it in that light. Instead, they look on it as a matter of obeying a piece of legislation rushed through Congress when millions of voters were overseas in the army and soft drink and other lobbies manipulating wartime patriotic hysteria to their own purposes.

Prohibition is a problem of thirst rather than of quencher—of the desire to buy rather than the eagerness to sell it for profit.

And prohibition will continue to be a failure until it is approached sensibly as a temperance problem. Some believe that light wines and beer are the ways to temperance. Others disagree. One of these days there'll be a showdown.

The Tangle

LETTER FROM MARY ALDEN
PRESIDENT TO MRS. LESLIE
PRESIDENT

MY DEAR DAUGHTER:

I hope you will not think me selfish when I tell you that I shall be glad to see you when you return, and I know that Jack misses you very, very much. However, he has been very busy since you have been away. He has not had time to have dinner with me but three times, but he has always made quite a party of it—once he invited the minister to dine with us, and twice your friends, Mrs. Ellington and Mrs. Atherton.

I like your lady friends very much, particularly Mrs. Atherton, who at first rather shocked me by appearing so soon after her husband's death in a hat with pink roses on it. However, during the course of the evening she remarked that a business woman had no right to indulge in great grief or regret to the detriment of her work, and either one of these would be noticed by the stranger who came into the office where she worked daily. I knew immediately that she didn't wear mourning on that account, although I couldn't just realize how she would make her great happiness visible to strangers.

I'm wearing the beautiful cape that Mrs. Ellington had made for me. The other day Miss Anderson and I went down to the lingerie shop. I didn't know that good women wore such delicate and expensive underwear. I rather wondered, as Mrs. Anderson had on an indescribable garment which she called a teddybear, made of chiffon, what my mother would have said had she seen it—my mother, who always insisted upon us wearing red flannel underclothes in the winter. I know that she would have said that there was something wrong with the mind of a woman who would wear transparent underclothes, and I have the same feeling.

Neither Mrs. Anderson nor Mrs. Ellington seemed to think anything about it, so I didn't make any remarks; but to you, my dear daughter, I can unbend myself, because when you were at my house I noticed that although your underwear was of the finest of linen and batiste, and made with the utmost care by hand, its laces and embroideries perhaps more expensive than I had been accustomed to, there were no colored chifons among them.

It may be a modern idiosyncrasy, my dear, but I am glad you haven't. By the way, I think I have found a place where that secret drawer might be concealed. At least I have found a place on the outside of the desk that doesn't seem to be filled by a corresponding receptacle on the inside. When you come home, I will show it to you and we can open it together if we find it is right.

Little John Alden, Jr. is wonderful. He knows his grandmother all ready and reaches out his tiny arms to me whenever I come near. He shows signs of trying to walk. I think he will walk and talk very soon.

Love, your mother,
MARY ALDEN PRESIDENT.

Many women participate in convention

Cleveland, Ohio, June 4.—(A. P.)—Among the numbers of unusual women who will participate in the Republican national convention here the week of June 10 is one who undertook to conquer Democratic weather. In her state, Kentucky, the elements are said to conspire particularly at times with the topography of the eastern section, and to oppose their combined forces is compared with the defiance of Ajax to the lightning and the attempt of Cassius to command the tide.

She is Mrs. A. T. Hart of Louisville, Ky., a member of the national committee on arrangements for the convention. It was during the last gubernatorial campaign in Kentucky that Mrs. Hart opened her fight to redistrict the state in such a way "that the election may be determined by votes cast and not by the amount of rain that falls," as the Republicans put it. A number of her precincts have already been marred off, in response to her agitation.

Mrs. Hart represented that the various precincts were sometimes divided by streams, with the polling places on one side of the stream, at the foot of a mountain. Most of the Republicans in Kentucky live in the mountains and it was contended that when elections followed heavy rains, many a man on his way to the polls either got stuck on the mountain-side or was unable to ford the swollen creek.

Mrs. Hart succeeded in having a number of new precincts formed in such a way that the polling-places are accessible to the mountaineer even during Democratic weather.

Mrs. Martin J. Caples of Norfolk, Va., alternate at large, will be the special representative of the Bascom Stamp, Mr. Coolidge's secretary, Mrs. Charles Babin, daughter of Paul Morton, a member of Roosevelt's cabinet, will be a delegate-at-large from New York state. Mrs. Anna W. Valle of Denver, Colo., is an associate member of the national arrangement committee.

Trics Kellogg's Bran—restores health after 12 years of intense suffering

Mr. Firth writes that he suffered for 12 years from constipation and his friend for 10 years—a total of 22 years' suffering permanently relieved by Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

Conclusions: For 12 years I had been troubled with indigestion caused mostly by constipation. Until about a year ago I took Kellogg's Bran and in a short time I was cured. I am now eating the Krumbled Bran every day.

The most wonderful results obtained by me in eating Krumbled Bran I will now relate. A gentleman who has been taking medicine for about 20 years for constipation could not find anything to give him relief. Three weeks ago I advised him to try Krumbled Bran, as I had been told what wonderful results I had gotten from it. The gentleman in question purchased a box, and he told me that for the first time in ten years he is regular without taking medicine.

Years for constipation. Without pills, etc. 24 Vicks St., Bismarck, N. D.

Eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Eat two table-spoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. The flavor is delicious. Try it in the recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

JACK DEMPSEY WHIPS THREE IN ONE NIGHT

Heavyweight Champion Scores Three Knockouts in Benefit Bout

Los Angeles, June 4.—William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, who when not facing a motion picture camera, faces opponents in his capacity of heavyweight boxing champion, scored a triple victory here last night when he knocked out three heavyweights at a benefit program held at the Vernon arena.

Rocco Stragambello, who last summer was credited with knocking Dempsey's eye during a training camp bout, was the first contender against the champion. Stragambello went to his knees in the middle of the first round and again as the round ended, and was saved from a knockout by the bell. After one minute of the second round, a scratch to the solar plexus put him to sleep for several minutes.

Joe Ryan, Los Angeles heavyweight, looked as though he would meet with more success than Stragambello until the fight started. He went on the canvas in a few seconds and spent the round on the floor. He refused to come out for the second round.

Eli Stanton, the third and last victim, started the fight with a dance which was cut short by a smashing left hook to the chin.

KNOCK SHOCKER OUT OF BOX

Boston Red Sox Beat Star St. Louis Pitcher

Chicago, June 4.—Urban Shocker, the St. Louis Browns' star pitcher, was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning of yesterday's game with Boston, and the Red Sox pulled out winner behind Quinn and Ehnke by an 8 to 7 score. Boone, Harris and Sider got homers.

Zachary, Washington southpaw, held Detroit to two hits, the Senators winning 11 to 1. New York bunched hits with Chicago's errors and defeated the White Sox, 6 to 3. In the National League New York beat Brooklyn twice, making it nine victories in 11 games with the Dodgers this year. In the first Nehf pitched New York's victory and in the second Bentley was the winning pitcher. Cincinnati won from Boston, 5 to 1. Rixey holding Boston to five hits, Philadelphia blanked St. Louis, Mitchell holding the Cardinals to two scratch hits.

LEE LOOKS AND FIELDS LIKE BUSH

Boston, June 3.—In Dudley Lee the Boston Red Sox have picked up the most sensational fielding shortstop that has broken into the American League in years.

Lee in a great many ways is a replica of Donie Bush when he was when he joined the Detroit Tigers back in 1909 and helped carry that team to the pennant.

In late years Bush broadened out, put on considerable weight, but when he broke in he was a slim youngster like Lee.

Lee can go to his right or left with equal ease and grace, carries a good arm and gets the ball away quickly.

Not only in the field, but also at the bat does Lee resemble Bush.

UNCLE SAM'S BOYS IN OLYMPIC TRIALS

LEFT TO RIGHT: CABALLERO, HALLAIZ, KLEO, MARENO.

It is probable that some of the strength which your Uncle Samuel will fling against the world in the Olympic games in Paris this summer will be made up of his soldier boys. Four of the best three-milers in the army are pictured in this group, snapped while preparing for the Olympic trials in the east.

He is a left handed hitter, chops at the ball rather than swings, and doesn't get much power in his stroke. His best bet is just dropping the ball over the infield.

Eastern critics are satisfied as to Lee's fielding ability, but in doubt as to his hitting. He batted well over .300 in the Western League last season.

"I'm not worried about Lee's hitting," confides Manager Lee Todd. "If he only reaches the .250 mark he will be one of the most valuable shortstops in the American League. Add to his batting average the hits he kills by sensational fielding and he will be around the .400 mark."

That's that.

Golf Jinx Camps On Hagen's Trail

Home-Bred, Second in Six Big Tournaments Last Summer, Will Be Formidable in This Year's Open

By Joe Williams
No golfer in the country had a more glittering competitive record in 1923 than Walter Hagen, the well-dressed American home-bred, yet he failed to win a single major championship.

What Hagen did do, however, was to finish second in six big tournaments, including the British open, and all who know golf realize that it is practically as difficult to finish second as first in a golf competition where a mere turn of a putt frequently decides the fight.

Hagen was but two shots back of Sarazen in the North of England championship last spring, a five on a par four hole, which he had reached on his drive, costing him at least a tie for the title.

At Troon, in the British open, Hagen finished a stroke behind Havers, the winner. Out of the 72 holes played he had but three bad ones. At these three holes he dropped five strokes to par. Still he was good enough to come within one stroke of a tie, and two strokes of a win.

In the professionals' match play championship in this country Hagen bowed to Sarazen again, but only after the two had played 36 holes even up and had gone two extra holes.

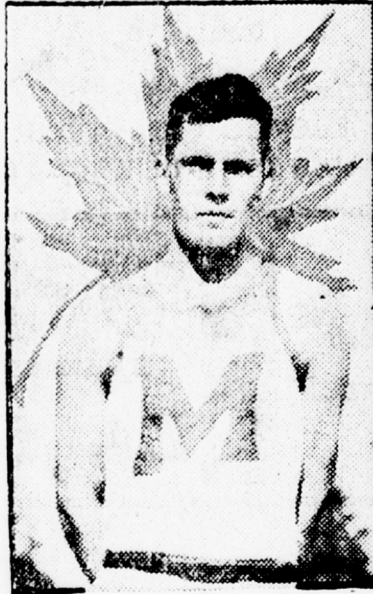

Any golfer knows there is little to choose between two golfers who conclude a 36-hole test all square. In matches of this kind the "breaks" of the game invariably direct the final award.

Hagen, on the eve of a new season, is probably wondering what the future has in store for him. Sometimes it's easier to lose by a furlong than an eyelash. The feeling that the gods of luck were against you isn't so keen.

Hagen may be more fortunate at Oakland Hills, where the American open championship will be decided June 5-6. This is his old home course, and he knows every blade of grass on it. Some of his finest scoring rounds were recorded here. Hagen is in form, too. Recently he won the North and South championship at Pinehurst from a belligerent field, breaking his own record for the event. He isn't all through by any means.

Epson Downs, June 4.—The Earl of Derby's Sanfohio, by Sweeney, out of Gondelette, won the Derby, England's classic turf event, run here today.

CANADA

DAVE JOHNSON

By NEA Service
Montreal, June 4.—Canada will be represented in the Olympic games by what Alfred Shrubb declares "one of the greatest quarter milers in the world."

Dave Johnson of Lachine, Quebec, born in 1902, matriculated from Lachine High School to McGill University with the highest percentage of all scholars. At McGill he developed as a track runner and cleaned up in all the shorter distances in the intercollegiate competitions.

Sports did not interfere with his studies and he won a Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford University and also became a gold medalist. At the English seat of learning his latest achievement in the world of sport was the winning of the quarter-mile interservice race between Oxford and Cambridge and in this event he defeated Stevenson, an American quarter miler with a big reputation for speed.

The Canadian Olympic committee immediately put him on the track team. He is a strong starter and maintains a steady pace that is heartbreaking to his rivals.

Hasn't Had A Sore Arm In 22 Years

Veteran Quinn Blasts Theory That Spitball Pitching Hurts The Arm

BY BILLY EVANS
Pitcher Jack Quinn of the Boston Red Sox stands out as one of baseball's greatest athletes. It is his ace in the hole. He has good speed and a sharp curve, but the old spitter is still his one best bet. The spitball is generally regarded as the hardest of all deliveries on a pitcher's arm. The career of most pitchers using the moist ball has been short. Quinn is a decided exception as far as such a theory is concerned.

Never Had Sore Arm
"I have never had a sore arm in my life," remarked Quinn to me recently when I asked him if the constant use of the spitball had bothered him.

"The spitball is no harder on the arm than the curve or fast ball if thrown properly," continued Quinn. "Most spitball pitchers, have always worked on the theory that to get a sharp downward break on the ball it is necessary to let it go with a snap. There is a jerky motion to such a delivery."

"The spitball thrown in such a manner is hard on the arm. However, a curve ball thrown with a snap to the delivery is just as injurious."

"The belief that the spitball is hard on the arm is all a myth. The harm is done by the method used by a majority of pitchers in throwing it."

Spitter Not Hard on Arm

"I throw my fast ball, curve and snitter with the same free easy motion, and find there is no difference in the strain on the arm. Most pitchers are at fault in the delivery."

Jack Quinn is a soldier of fortune as far as baseball is concerned. His career as a pitcher reads more like Frank Merriwell fiction. He has been in and out of the majors three times. He has pitched in the American, National and Federal Leagues.

It is a rather interesting fact that the World War gave Quinn a new lease on life after he had seemed passed out of the majors for good.

Back in 1918 Quinn was pitching for the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast League. Because of the war that organization shortened its season.

War Gave Him Chance

The major leagues had suffered greatly because of the loss of many players eligible for service. Players of big league caliber were at a premium.

Quinn was given permission to finish the season with the White Sox of the American League. He won five games out of six. The New York Yankees, it seems, had a prior claim to his services and he was awarded to that team in 1919.

He spent three years with the Yankees and was traded to Boston in 1922. This is his third year with the Red Sox.

American League batters say he is a better pitcher today than when he made his big league debut with the New York club in 1909.

MANDAN NEWS

FLAG GIVEN
Members of Mandan Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America last night received a magnificent silk flag, the gift of the Grand Lodge of the United States, B. P. O. Elks.

When J. G. McFarland, Watertown, S. D., grand exalted ruler of the order, paid a visit to Mandan Lodge No. 1256 B. P. O. E., this spring there was a parade of local Elks and their proteges the Boy Scouts.

Mr. McFarland remarked about the beautiful flag the scouts carried and was most enthusiastic about the work the local lodge has done with the Boy Scouts. He was told the boys had borrowed the flag from the Legion.

"I'll see that they get a flag of their own then," he said and he kept his promise.

The flag came the other day.

When Love Has No Doubts

By CLARA DELAFIELD

"Mother, I can't, I just can't."
"Can't what, my precious?"
"I can't marry Will tomorrow."

"But, Lettice, darling, what's happened? Have you two quarreled?"

"No, only—it's so dreadful. I'm not sure that I love him, and—Oh, I just can't."

"But, Lettice—listen, darling. If you back out now, with everything set and the guests and the presents—Oh, the scandal would be terrible. Lettice, surely, surely you're not going to bring this disgrace upon us all!"

"Mother!" Lettice looked at her tragically. "Do you want me to marry a man I don't love, just because of what people will say?"

"Oh, Lettice, you make me so unhappy. What will your father say? Are you sure you don't care for him?"

"I—I don't know. I thought I loved him. Suddenly Lettice broke into hysterical weeping. "Oh, mother, I don't know what to do. Advise me! Oh, you feel this way before you married father?"

"I—I—" Her mother was bewildered. She had never put that question to herself before. "Lettice, my little girl, if you really feel you don't love Will I won't force you into it. We'll hear our shame."

"No, I'll marry him."

"Do you care, Lettice? Do you care?"

"I—I think—yes, I do. Of course I do. I was just unnerved. I—I love him, mother."

Her mother, aged fondly after her daughter as she went upstairs to bed. She was not quite so alarmed as she had seemed to be.

In his bachelor rooms Will Scriven sat looking over a pile of rubbish that he was destroying prior to his marriage. There were Amy's letters. How Amy and he had loved each other! But that romance was dead, and only the lingering echoes of it remained to haunt the corridors of memory.

But there was Rose. This was all that was left. Rose, this photograph which he tore resolutely in two. Rose and he had had a desperate affair. It had lasted nearly a year. And now—these fragments in the waste-basket!

Did he love Lettice as he had loved Rose and Amy? In a different way, a quieter way, perhaps. He loved her, but—

A sudden terror came over him at the thought of this approaching end of his liberty. An instinct to make a wild bolt for freedom. To pack his bag and disappear forever from the sight of all who had known him. A hurried note to Lettice—

But he pictured her look when she opened it in the morning. And she loved him so! No, a man couldn't do that. He must sacrifice his life to play the part of a gentleman.

But didn't he love her? He did. Dear little Lettice! What a fool he had been, letting the memory of those past affairs sweep him away. It wasn't as if he cared for either Rose or Amy now. It wasn't as if he knew it was the possibility of some future Rose or Amy appearing on the scene! Resolutely he undressed and went to bed.

Morning Sunshine, Church. The organ pealed the Wedding March. Lettice beside him, radiant under her veil. The touch of her little hand in his. Signing the registry. Entering the car. Rice and old shoes that knocked his hat crooked on his head. Then—they were alone and driving for the station. And of the interval at the bride's house while she changed her wedding dress he remembered nothing.

Alone—alone in the train, oblivious of the curious looks of the passengers.

"Will, dear, tell me you love me."

"Of course I love you."

"Last night I—I wasn't sure—I almost wanted to break it off unless you'd told me—"

"Why, Lettice! Don't you care?"

"Of course I care. I love you with all my heart. Will dear. Only—I wasn't sure. Tell me, have you always been sure?"

"Always, from the first moment we met." Will answered, smuggling his arm around his little bride. Lettice leaned back ecstatically. And both were sure.

Oil Spring in 1629

The first reference to the discovery of petroleum in America is contained in a letter written in 1629 by Joseph de la Roche d'Allon, a French missionary to the Indians.

He had crossed the Niagara river and made his way southward through western New York into northern Pennsylvania, where he found a spring from which oil flowed.

This oil was highly esteemed by the Indians for medical uses, says the Detroit News. The letter of the priest was published in 1932 in Sagard's "Histoire de Canada."

For Office Men

"Sedentary work," said the lecturer, "tends to lessen the endurance."

"In other words," butted in the smart student, "the more one sits the less one can stand."

"Exactly," retorted the lecturer, "and if one lies a great deal one's standing is lost completely."

Can you give me a good description of your absorbing cushion?" anxiously asked the detective.

"We-ell," answered the hotel proprietor, "I believe he's about five feet five inches tall and about $7,000 short."—American Legion Weekly.

FLOWERS TRAVEL

Ely, England, June 4.—A red and green flower that may be seen to crawl along the ground for a distance of 10 feet, blooming for two weeks and turning to a pale yellow before it dies, has been grown by James Cutshaw, an Ely gardener. Moonlight is said to be particularly favorable to the growth of the flower.

Had No Diver's Suit

What is said to be a record claim for damage to a watch, which had been sold with a guarantee against mechanical imperfection, was reported by a New York jewelry retailer. The watch was of the wrist variety, and had been a birthday gift from the mother of the young woman who made the claim. She brought it back to the retailer a couple of months after the purchase and complained that it would not run. On the strength of the guarantee she demanded a new watch. The retailer quickly ascertained that her charge was true, but when he examined the watch more closely he found the works almost entirely covered with rust. The young woman was at first unwilling to admit that the watch had been badly treated in any way, but finally admitted that she had worn it while taking a bath. Under the circumstances the jeweler could not see where the watch was at fault, but he offered to replace the works at factory cost. This offer, however did not make much of a bit with the claimant.

Ever Buy a Wooden Nutmeg?

A huckster stopped at Grandmother's door. "Any nutmegs today, lady?"

In the tray before him he displayed his wares—big, beautiful nutmegs, and at a ridiculously low price.

Being fond of nutmeg's spicy flavor, and seeing an opportunity to stock up on them to advantage, Grandmother bought generously.

There was to be rice pudding for supper. Grandmother took the golden-brown beauty from the oven and prepared to give it its finishing touch—a sprinkling of nutmeg. Out came the grater and one of the new nutmegs. She scraped and looked puzzled. Scraped again, and looked closer. Sawdust!! The nutmegs were made of wood.

How far from such methods we have traveled in these days of advertised merchandise. The merchant of today signs his name to what he says about what he sells. He knows that when you come to buy you will expect the goods in his store to be what he has said. He knows that if he deceives you once, your trade is gone forever.

Canada Organizes Eight Health Centers For Child Welfare After Demonstration Reduces Mortality

That the Province of Quebec has appropriated $500,000 for the establishment of eight health centers through the Province to wage a war on tuberculosis and infant mortality, as a result of a demonstration conducted by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company at Thetford Mines, Que., is disclosed in a letter from the Prime Minister of Quebec, Hon. L. A. Taschereau, to Halsey Fisher, President of the Metropolitan. The demonstration at Thetford Mines, covering two years, brought a reduction in infant mortality rates from 33.5 in each 1,000 births in the year 1920 to 23.3 in each 1,000 births in the year 1923; with the death rates still showing a decrease.

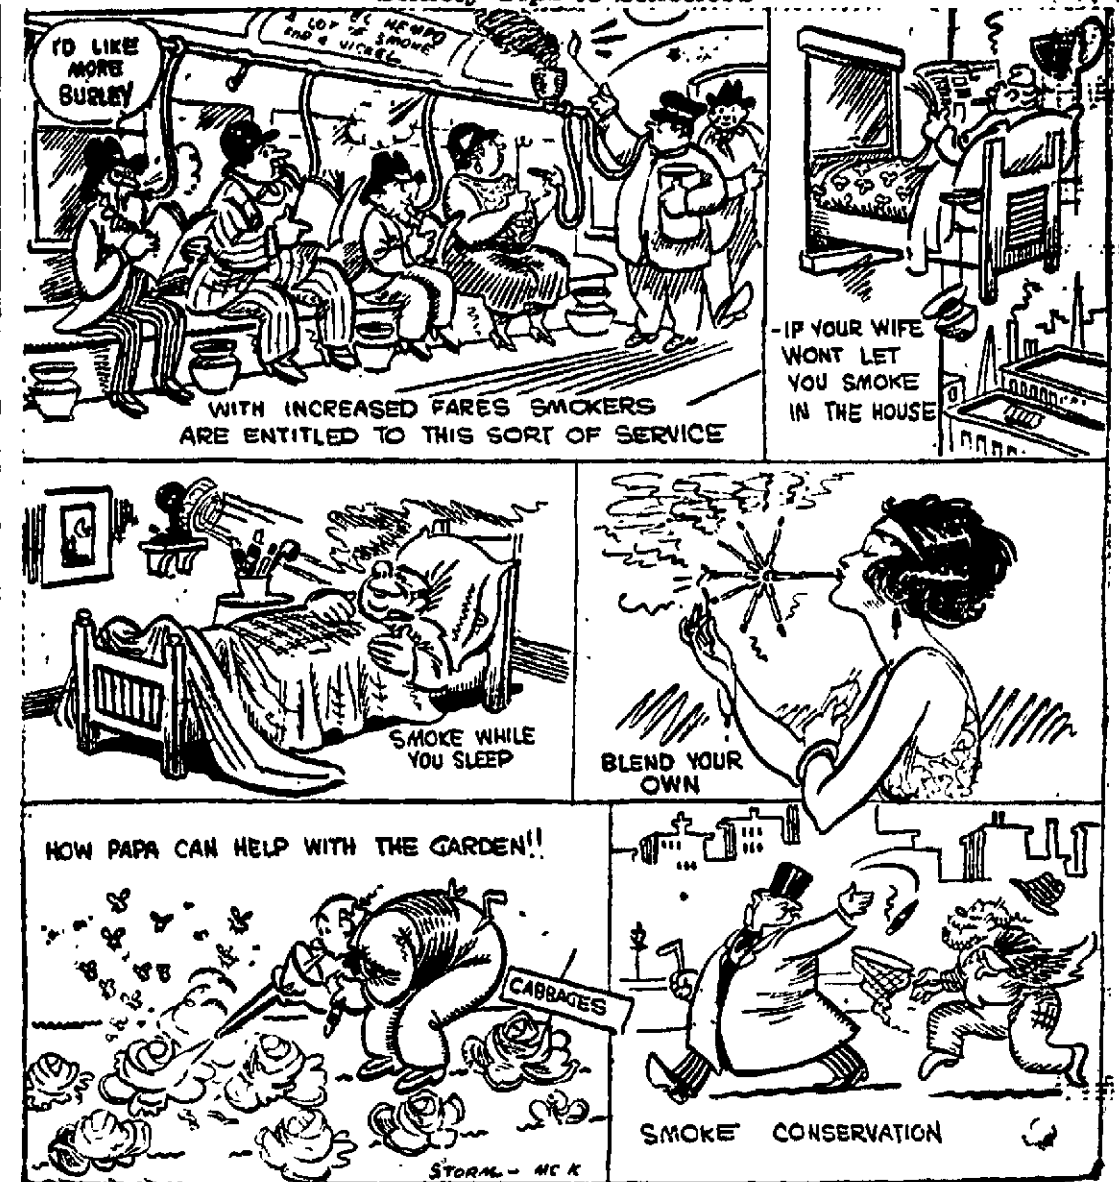

The demonstration was actually begun in May, 1921, and religious authorities, municipal officers and the mining company co-operated in the demonstration. At the outset the community voted their babies from places from five center, but the end of the first

WILL START NIGHT MAIL SERVICE

July 1 Is the Date Set For the Beginning of Continuous
Mail Service

BY LARRY BOARDMAN
NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 4—The "dream" of the Postal Department—continuous transcontinental air mail service—is to become a reality July 1.

On that day postal service flyers will start piloting their planes in steady flight between New York and San Francisco.

An air mail pilot will take off from New York at noon, arriving in Chicago at sundown. There another pilot will take off with his cargo of mail in pursuit of the setting sun.

When darkness falls, he will be guided by the line of beacon lights 1,000 miles long, between Chicago and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Coming into Cheyenne with the dawn, the second pilot will be relayed by a third, who will wing over the rugged tops of the Rockies and Sierras and land by the shores of the Golden Gate before sunset.

Giant Beacons Light Way
At the same time, a relay of three pilots will be making the eastbound trip.

It is upon night flying—the flight between Chicago and Cheyenne—that the fate of transcontinental air mail service depends.

Realizing this, the Postal Department has established a lighted airway in the "darkness zone" calculated to make night flying as safe as day.

Automatic acetylene lamps have been placed every three miles. Every 25 miles there is an emergency landing field, equipped with a revolving electric searchlight. At intervals of 200 miles are the regular landing fields, provided with revolving searchlight beacons of 500,000,000 candlepower, casting their beams 150 miles.

As an added precaution, bids for new planes with slower landing speeds have been called for. The department will furnish the motors—Liberties—while in other respects the planes must fulfill rigid departmental specifications.

Special stamps
The personnel of the air mail flying force—41 pilots and 157 mechanics—will not be augmented; nor will the number of planes now in use—varying from 75 to 80—be increased.

Special air mail stamps have been printed and divided into three zones—between New York and Chicago, Chicago and Cheyenne and Cheyenne and San Francisco. An 8-cent stamp will carry a letter anywhere within two zones, and a 24-cent stamp within three zones.

Letters destined to cities off the air mail route will not require extra postage. They will be taken from the planes at the nearest point to their destination and sent on from there by train.

Special air mail post boxes are now under construction to be painted red, white and blue, designated by signs, and honored by special collection.

Auxiliary air mail service has been in operation for several years, but its purpose has been merely to advance the mails—picking up late mails in New York, for example, carrying them to Cleveland and placing them aboard a westbound train which left New York the day before.

The new system will lift air mail out of its auxiliary status and give it the standing of an independent service. It is to be tried for one year on an appropriation of $2,750,000. Then, if successful it will be made a permanent institution.

BLUE BIRD WINS RUN TO CAMP CURRY

Two Overlands Star in Eighth Annual Los Angeles-to-
Yosemite Economy Test

What is probably the most auspicious debut ever scored by a new Willlys-Overland model is the wonderful win by the Overland Blue Bird in the eighth annual 400-mile Los Angeles-to-camp Curry Yosemite economy run on May 17th and 18th.

In addition this car won the trophy in its own class, an Overland Model 91 won its class up and a Willlys-Knight touring car captured the second Sweepstakes prize, a truly remarkable score in a grueling test conducted by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Using only 13 5-8 gallons of gasoline, no additional oil and only 14 1/2 pints of water, the Blue Bird, piloted by Joe Bozzani, of the Bozzani Motor Car Company, Los Angeles city dealers, won the Sweepstakes cup with an average of 29.36 miles to the gallon, completely out-performing the rest of the field.

This is the third time that an Overland has won the Sweepstakes honors.

What made the victory all the more remarkable was the total weight of the winning Overland, its load of 3520 being exceeded by only eight cars in the test, thus demonstrating its ability to carry weight as well as to operate economically.

The Blue Bird's ton mileage per gallon scored for the Sweepstakes honor position was 49.61.

Besides winning the Sweepstakes trophy the Blue Bird also captured the honors in its own class, 2-A, for cars selling at more than $651 at the factory, in which it scored a ton mileage of 45.67.

Willlys-Knight Wine Second
Second prize in the Sweepstakes went to another Willlys-Overland entry—a Willlys-Knight touring car, driven by C. E. Kirkham of the Willlys-Overland Pacific Company.

The Willlys-Knight registered 29.58 miles per gallon, using no water and only two pints of oil. Its Sweepstakes' score was a ton mileage of 45.67 per gallon of gas. The outstanding feature of its run, however, is its remarkable cooling efficiency. Despite the fact that the contestants encountered the hottest day of the year, with the thermometer registering 102 degrees through the Joquim Valley, with the likelihood that even this mark was exceeded in the Mohave desert stretch from Palmdale to near the Tehachapi summit, not a drop of water had to be added to the Willlys-Knight's radiator.

KIDDIES MAKE A BIG HIT

Butterfly Kiddies Win Plaudits of Rochester Audience

The following story concerning the Butterfly Kiddies who appear at the Auditorium tomorrow and Friday is taken from the Daily Post and Record of Rochester, Minn.

"Education of the eleven Butterfly Kiddies, who have delighted many children and adults at the Lawler theater this week, is carefully and systematically provided.

These children are from good families in Detroit and range from second grade to high school ages. Miss DeLyle, in charge of the education of the child explained briefly that the Kiwanis luncheon yesterday that standard textbooks are used and the work is under supervision of the Detroit school authorities.

In addition to the book studies the children are offered the opportunity of seeing the important historical and scenic places in their travels from coast to coast.

At Grand Forks, Miss DeLyle said, the children were given the mental test and all graded normal or above.

The youngsters are entertainers of a high order and will appear at the Auditorium Thursday and Friday in connection with a picture program with a matinee Thursday at 3 o'clock and two shows each evening.

Dr. La Rose and Mr. Bergeson
Report on Meeting

Members of the Rotary club, at the noon luncheon today, heard reports by President V. J. LaRose and Secretary R. M. Bergeson on the recent district executives' conference held in Minneapolis.

The executives confirmed the choice of Hibbing for the 1925 conference of Rotary, and both Dr. LaRose and Mr. Bergeson reported that echoes of the successful Bismarck conference still were being heard.

The meeting was given over mostly to business affairs. Harry Wagner entertained with piano monologues. Guests included R. J. Henderson of Minneapolis, Roy Baird and Master Edward Singhill.

Grand Canyon Supplied With Water by Train

"Water, water, everywhere, nor any drop to drink." This famous expression of Coleridge describes quite accurately the situation at Grand Canyon, where an abundance of clear water may be seen rushing down the Colorado river in the depths of the canyon, but beyond reach of visitors and residents of the village itself.

All the water used at the canyon is hauled in by the Santa Fe, and is obtained from Jack Smith and Flag staff springs, which are about nine miles north of Flagstaff, Ariz. This cold spring water has its origin in the snows at the top of the San Francisco peaks, and is absolutely free from contamination. It is carried from the springs to a 50,000,000-gallon reservoir about seven miles north of Flagstaff, whence it is conveyed by pipe lines to the station. Steel tank cars of 10,000-gallon capacity each are used in transporting the water from Flagstaff to the canyon, the ordinary needs requiring ten carloads of water daily.

This means that the Santa Fe hauls approximately 100,000 gallons of fresh spring water from Flagstaff to Grand Canyon, a distance of 90 miles, each day.

Numerous investigations and surveys have been conducted with a view to utilizing the clear water so abundantly available at the bottom of the canyon, but so far no feasible method of doing this has been found.—Santa Fe Magazine.

WOMAN DENIED DIVORCE, SAYS SHE WILL DIE

Domestic Tangle Is Unfolded of North Dakota Woman in Minneapolis

Minneapolis, June 4—Life and law are waging a relentless struggle for supremacy in Minneapolis with a slight blond woman as their pawn.

The law says that she belong to her husband, but life cries out that if he comes to claim her he will find only her lifeless body.

That was the story unfolded in Hennepin county district court when Judge Frank M. Nye, refused to grant a plea of divorce in an action brought by Mrs. Bertha Thompson, against her husband, Edwin Thompson, farmer, of Sharon, N. D.

She failed to prove her charges of cruel and inhuman treatment, Judge Nye found.

The Thompsons were married in Batton, N. D., in 1913, when he was 29 and she was but 17. The story of their life on the farm as outlined by Mrs. Thompson, was one of hard work and the care of children—with a man she did not love.

Thompson is a strong, robust man, while she is slight. She didn't love him, never loved him, she told the court, and she wanted to be freed.

Finally she came away from the farm and for the last four years has been living in Minneapolis, working as a seamstress and supporting herself and little daughter. A little son is in North Dakota in the father's custody.

In a calm voice, she answered questions in her effort to substantiate the charges that her husband had been guilty of cruelty and that he had abused her. Then her husband took the stand and denied the charges. He wanted nothing of divorce, he told the court. He only wanted his wife to come back to their farm home and live with him again.

"If I have to go back and live with him again, I shall do away with myself," she said.

Six reasons for a "busy" line

An operator does not "listen in" to learn that a line is busy but instead finds out by means of a mechanical test.

The telephone called is not necessarily in use when the line tests "busy". It will do so in any of the following cases:

1. Some one may be using the telephone called.

2. If the number called is on a party line, the other person on the line may be using his telephone.

3. You may have called the wrong number and that line is "busy."

4. Someone else may be trying at that moment to get the same line you are calling.

5. The receiver of the telephone called may be off the hook or held up by something accidentally placed under it.

6. Temporary disarrangement of mechanism at the central office may, on rare occasions, cause a line to signal "busy" when the operator tests it.

Naturally, an operator regrets when a line tests "busy" because it disappoints the subscriber and probably makes it necessary for him to place the call again.

EXPECT MANY AT BAKERY

World Famous Expert to Give
Recipes to Women

A large attendance of women of the city at the demonstration will be given Thursday afternoon from 3 to 4 p. m. at the Barker Baking and Candy Company by Arthur A. Winters, world-wide famous baker, is expected. The demonstration is free.

Mr. Winters, called the world's highest paid food expert, today was instructing bakers at the Barker plant. This extraordinary baker, who has been called the "Caruso of the Oven," is said to be the highest paid expert in the United States and is able to command a salary of $175 a day. He has traveled throughout the country, as well as to some foreign countries, giving instructions to bakers and demonstrations to domestic science classes.

Mr. Winters claims to have 16,000 recipes on the tip of his tongue. He will give the women of the city free tomorrow some of his world famous recipes, and his products will be handled by the Barker Baking and Candy Company.
